REDFERN IS MISSING; NO TRACE OF PLANE

REDFERN'S ROMANCE

Met Wife While An Aviator For Her Father

MRS. PAUL REDFERN

By W. Y. FERROL
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 29.—Paul Redfern, young aviator who took off from here on the first attempt at a non-stop Pan-American flight, and who is now missing, had a romance of the air.

For several months he was aviator for C. G. Hillabrand of Toledo, O., who used a plane in connection with his business through the Middle West.

Thus he met Hillabrand's daughter. They were married two and a half years ago.

Mrs. Redfern is a pretty brunette. She has no children.

And she has had no aspirations to be a pilot, she says.

Nor did the many letters from girls who wanted to accompany her husband on his perilous flight cause her envy. One girl, who signed herself "Flying Cloud", pleaded vainly for the opportunity. Mrs. Redfern preserved the letters.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 29.—This city was still without word today as to the whereabouts of Paul Redfern, American aviator, who is feared to have met with disaster on his attempted non-stop flight from Brunswick, Ga.

Government authorities have not yet taken steps to search for Redfern's missing plane "Port of Brunswick," as it is still hoped that he has landed safely at some point out of touch with communications.

Rumor Redfern Seen.
(International News Service)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 29.—An unconfirmed report was received here today that Aviator Paul Redfern, who set out on Thursday to make a non-stop flight from Brunswick, Ga., to this city, had been sighted over the delta of the Orinoco river.

The National Telegraph Bureau is attempting to obtain definite information from Venezuela and Guiana concerning the report.

An International News Service dispatch from Para said that boats putting into that port during the past 24 hours reported they had not sighted Redfern's plane nor heard any news regarding it.

The student, Clifford Burnworth, 23, Pittsburgh, suffered a fractured skull.

The plane had stopped at Bettis field to refuel and had just hopped off for a trip towards Uniontown. When 200 feet in the air the plane went into a tail-spin and crashed dizzily to the ground.

NEARLY WRECKS PLANE IN LANDING

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—Charles A. Levine, American trans-Atlantic flyer, who set out from Le Bourget, near Paris, in his plane Columbia this afternoon, landed at the Croydon flying field, near London, at 4:10 o'clock, it was not until he reached Croydon that his destination was known.

CROYDON, Eng., Aug. 29.—Charles A. Levine, American airplane owner, who ended his first flight alone, at Croydon flying field this afternoon, gave the officials of the air depot the worst fright they have had in a long time. When attempting to land Levine couldn't shut off his motor. The plane careened and banked badly while the authorities stood nervously watching the machine and fearing the worst. Calls were sent out for an ambulance and fire apparatus in expectation of a crash. Finally when he got his plane settled Levine climbed out of the cockpit.

RECENT DISASTERS FAIL TO DAUNT OTHER FLIERS

(International News Service)
Undaunted by disasters which had overtaken other fliers, daring aviators were today writing air history in the sky.

In their monoplane, "The Pride of Detroit," Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, hopped off from Croyden, England, at 8:30 o'clock this morning (English time) to Munich, Germany, on another leg of their round-the- world flight. The distance from Croyden to Munich by air is 600 miles. The "Pride of Detroit" had only a few hours before completed a hop across the Atlantic to Croyden from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in 23 hours and 9 minutes.

At the same time preparations were being made by Phil Wood, navigator of the "Royal Windsor" and C. A. Schiller, pilot, to hopp off this afternoon on a non-stop flight from Windsor, Ontario to Windsor, England.

Meanwhile South American cities were without word of the whereabouts of Paul Redfern, American aviator, who took off last Thursday from Brunswick, Ga., on an attempted non-stop flight to Brazil. He is long overdue and feared to be lost.

No word has been received of the Dole fliers missing somewhere in the Pacific.

At Roosevelt Field, Long Island, "Old Glory," the Hearst Single motor plane, was poised on the runway waiting for dry weather to hop off for Rome, a distance of 4,300 miles.

Flights from Europe to America were being held up by bad weather over the Atlantic. Maurice Drouhin and Charles Levine were still in dispute over their flight to New York, and Otto Koennecke, the German flyer, is being held up at Cologne.

TO QUESTION HILL'S FATHER

Police Believe Father May Know Something Of His Son.

(International News Service)
STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 29.—Authorities planned today to question Dr. H. D. Hill, father of Harry Hill, 22, sought throughout the country as the slayer of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 53, in the belief he might have had word of the boy's whereabouts.

While police still had hope the youthful murderer would give himself up they said there was no foundation for reports he had been definitely located.

Streator ministers were campaigning for the closing of "soft drink" parlors and gambling places where young Hill was said to have drunk and gambled away huge sums of money.

Pressed to pay his debts, Hill began forging checks on his mother's account, police said. This need for money was believed to have resulted in the shooting of Mrs. Hill an subsequent burial of her body in the basement of her home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Desire of a young "Sheik" policeman for quick, easy money with which to show his girl friends a good time—that, according to the theory of the police today, was the motive back of the astonishing and brutal murder of Judson Hewitt Pratt, paymaster of a construction company, who, on Saturday, was shot to death in an automobile and his $4,497.85 payroll seized.

MUNICH, Aug. 29. — The Pride of Detroit, American round the world plane, landed here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, completing the second leg of the long flight.

(International News Service)
CROYDON, Eng., Aug. 29.—With the first long hop of their round-the-world flight successfully completed, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock took off from the air field here at 8:30 this morning for Munich, Germany.

The "Pride of Detroit", the Wright-propelled monoplane which carried the intrepid fliers 2,150 miles from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, made a beautiful take-off. Schlee and Brock circled the field, bade farewell to the land they had reached after their spectacular trans-oceanic flight of 23 hours and nine minutes, and disappeared into the clouds.

Off to Berlin

Munich is approximately 600 miles by air. Schlee and Brock are expected to arrive in that city before three o'clock this afternoon, although if they maintain the same average speed of 111 miles an hour they kept up on their flight across the Atlantic, they should reach Munich ahead of that time.

Weather conditions were perfect for the flight. The "Pride of Detroit" was trundled out of its hangar here shortly before seven o'clock this morning and after inspecting the engine, mechanics began the task of filling the plane's huge tanks with gasoline.

The Detroit aviators arrived at the air field before eight o'clock. They supervised the loading of the gasoline, gave the engine a final inspection and climbed into the cockpit. Schlee and Brock waved happily to the throng which had gathered to see

Sterilization Of Criminals Is Proposed

American Bar Association To Discuss Question At Buffalo Sessions.

BAR ASSOCIATION PONDER CRIME

International News Service Staff Correspondent:

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Sterilization of confirmed criminals of both sexes to prevent reproduction of anti-social traits will be considered this week by some 4,000 lawyers from all sections of the United States, assembled here for the annual meeting of the American Bar association and half a dozen allied organizations. Crime, and the improvement of criminal administration will constitute the predominant note of the assemblage, which has attracted hundreds of the most famous criminal lawyers of the nation.

A recent decision of the United States Supreme court upholding the right of states to sterilize "repeating criminals," has paved the way, according to a number of specialists in criminal law, for general adoption of the practice.

In the nation-wide fight to curb violent crime, ways and means of placing enabling legislation upon the statute books of the various states were considered today at the opening session of the national association of attorney generals, composed of the legal administrators of the commonwealths of the union. Tomorrow, the problem will receive the entire attention of the section on criminal law and criminology before which three members of the medical profession will present various formulae for setting up the medical and legal boards required for carrying out the program.

Dr. Herman M. Adler of Chicago, state criminologist of Illinois will present the biological and pathological aspects of the administrative problem, and Dr. William A. White, director of St. Elizabeth hospital, Washington, D. C., will outline the need for close co-operation between the medical and legal professions in dealing with the problem of crime.

Specific proposals of the American psychiatric association, which has advocated sterilization for several years, will be presented by Dr. Karl A. Menninger of Topeka, Kas., professor of criminology at Washburne college, Kansas.

Sterilization has been vigorously opposed by some sections of both the legal and medical professions.

While recognizing the advantage of weeding out undesirable types by an operation which prevents reproduction without in any degree impairing the physical or mental powers of the patient, this section of the professional world still holds that an abuse of the power might lead eventually to the establishment of personal dictatorships wherever officials might choose to turn upon their political opponents with surgery.

Former Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, president of the Bar association left Buffalo yesterday for Niagara Falls, Ont., to meet Lord Gordon Hewart, lord chief justice of England, who will address the convention Thursday evening. Lord Hewart is to be presented introduced by Chief Justice Taft of the Supreme court. Governor Smith of New York will address the second general session of the association Wednesday afternoon.

State Senator Caleb H. Baumer, father of the celebrated New York State Baumes law for curbing repeating criminals will describe the results of the enactments before Tuesday's session of the criminal law section.

occurred at 2:24 a. m., E. S. T. They reported to railroad officials here that none of the passengers required medical attention.

The Broadway Limited was composed of two locomotives and ten cars, all but one of which were Pullmans. It was bound for New York.

Sleeping Cars Stay On Tracks

Six sleeping cars remained on the track. Passengers of the derailed cars were transferred to those and a special club car which was taken on to New York by an emergency locomotive sent from Gallitzin. It left for New York at 5:55 a. m., E. S. T.

Each of the four main line tracks was covered with wreckage, causing several hours delay for all main line trains. Until the wreckage was cleared and the first track opened at 7:30 a. m., trains were re-routed over the new Portage Branch.

Track number one, usually devoted to freight was the least seriously damaged, railroad officials reported. It was thrown six inches out of line, but repair crews put it in shape for traffic.

It was the second time in recent weeks that a locomotive operated by Engineer Garrett had gone over an embankment, it was reported. The first time he was not seriously injured.

Many wild and unfounded rumors concerning the number of dead and injured were circulated soon after first reports of the wreck reached Altoona, but all were checked and discarded.

One report stated that a third man, E. J. Sutton, of New York, the baggagemaster, was killed, but he was found to be uninjured.

Another report had Conductor J. W. Simpson hurt, but he too was found to be uninjured.

Many passengers, especially those in the cars next to the locomotive, were shaken up and suffered from shock, but physicians reported none required medical attention.

The cause of the wreck is unknown. Railroad officials would not give their opinion as to the probable cause until they made an investigation. A special train was sent from Pittsburgh, bearing railroad officials.

Just three hours before the wreck, the leading locomotive on the westbound Broadway Limited was derailed at Wilmore, Cambria county, after passing over the door of a box car, according to railroad officials. The box car had fallen across the tracks in some unknown manner.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company today started for the scene of the wreck on a special train to investigate its cause. Two committees, one in charge of C. E. Whitlock and the other headed by W. E. Brown, were sent from Pittsburgh. The committees are composed of men from the general manager's and the superintendent's office.

SCHLEE AND BROCK FLY FROM ENGLAND ACROSS TO GERMANY

the take-off, and as the powerful motor started settled down in their seats for the second lap of what they hope will be a record-breaking tour of the world.

Land Sunday Morning

Schlee and Brock landed here at 10:35 o'clock Sunday morning, calmly stepping from their plane more as though they were members of a tourist party than aviators defying the elements in a flight around the world.

Brock and Schlee arose early this morning after a good night's sleep at the Savoy hotel in London. They ate a hearty breakfast and immediately left by automobile for the Croydon air field. Everything was in readiness for the start. The motor had been tuned perfectly and the loading of gasoline was well under way when the fliers arrived.

If Schlee and Brock are able to maintain the speed of their flight over the Atlantic they will have little difficulty in accomplishing their desire to encircle the world in less than 28 1-2 days, the present record.

Among the large crowd which gathered to see the take-off were officials of the American embassy, who had motored out from London with the fliers. A tiny moth airplane escorted the "Pride of Detroit" from the ground and stayed with Schlee and Brock while they circled the field. The trans-Atlantic plane then set out in an easterly direction for its goal.

To Constantinople Next

From Munich Brock and Schlee expect to fly to Constantinople via Belgrade.

Arrangements have been made to supply "The Pride of Detroit" with a new engine when the fliers arrive in Tokio should the one which carried them across the Atlantic show signs of strain. Before the start this morning, however, Brock said he did not believe the change would be necessary.

T. Harold Kincaid, expert for the Wright Aeronautical Company, which constructed the ship's engine, inspected the motor before the hop-off. He also pronounced it in perfect condition.

Excellent Start.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—"Anybody got a cigaret?"

These four words, uttered almost simultaneously and with the utmost naivete by Edward F. Schlee and William Brock when they landed at Croydon airfield after an epochal airplane flight across the Atlantic from Newfoundland, still rang in England's ears today.

The successful termination of the first leg of the aviators' projected round-the-world flight, and their take-off less than 24 hours later for Munich, Germany, were hailed in aviation circles as the auspicious beginning of a feat unsurpassed in the annals of aero-navigation.

Schlee and Brock, flying their Wright-motored monoplane "Pride of Detroit", glided down on the Croydon field at 10:23 Sunday morning, just 23 hours and nine minutes after they had left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on their aerial argosy.

Brock was the first to step from the plane. Schlee followed him a moment later. Then both together:

"Anybody got a cigaret?"

In a twinkling, those in the tremendous crowd who were near enough to hear their modest question, dashed forward, their outstretched hands holding packages of cigarets.

"Well," said Schlee, "it's great to think you have flown across the Atlantic ocean."

Encounter Many Handicaps.

On their history-making flight, the Detroit airmen encountered practically all the weather conditions that can combine to make flying dangerous. They were without sunshine and good visibility, and the trackless expanse of air was dotted with rain and sleet storms, and the dreaded fogs and mists which make blind flying necessary.

Brock and Schlee were lost for three hours over England. They sighted the coast, and then the English channel, but were unable to get their bearings sufficiently to make a bee-line for Croydon. After circling about over the coast for some time, Schlee dropped a scribbled message in a paper bag weighted with an orange. It was picked up by a small boy. The message read:

"Please write the name of the town and the country in the sand."

This was done, but apparently the fliers could not see the queer inscription, for another message was dropped. This time the coast guard station at Seaton, Devon, hoisted a British flag, and Schlee and Brock knew that they had reached England. A short time later the hum of the plane's motor was heard over Croydon, and the great gilded machine broke thru the clouds.

The progress of the "Pride of Detroit" toward Croydon was a succession of mysterious disappearances and dramatic discoveries.

Late Saturday night the fliers were reported 400 miles west of Ireland. Then no news came until 8 o'clock Sunday morning, when the plane was sighted over Plymouth. An hour later Exmouth reported that the "Pride of Detroit" had twice passed over and disappeared again.

Schlee and Brock were flying in a broad circle, first trying to ascertain whether they had arrived over England, and then striking out through the fog in the direction of Croydon. It was feared for a time that the flight had ended similarly to that of Commander Richard E. Byrd, that the fliers had been cheated of their ultimate goal by the elements, and that they were forced to land in an isolated spot on the southern English coast while thousands of enthusiasts awaited their arrival at Croydon.

There was no official welcome, either American or British, at the airdrome. The explanation was that the flight was a purely private enterprise of which neither government had any official notification.

From the airdrome Brock and Schlee were taken by motor to London, where they ate breakfast and then retired. In the afternoon both fliers went again to Croydon to inspect their plane. After a light dinner both went to bed again with instructions to be called about 3 a. m. this morning to be ready for an early hop-off for Munich.

for later sailing groups, but it is to be hoped that the weatherman is a trifle more kindly disposed.

The Lancastria was about three hours late in arriving, because of somewhat choppy weather and a delayed start.

Ceremonies at the dock, aboard the ship and during the passage through the harbor marked the Lancastria's going.

Saturday's demonstration, arranged by the city and the American Legion, was the first of a series which will reach its climax September 9, when the official Legion delegation departs aboard the liner Sythia. Other groups of veterans sailed on the Cedric Sunday and still another group will sail on the Martha Washington Wednesday.

The City of Boston will donate a wreath to be placed on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

See McKibben's Ride

Saturday night Harry and I went out to Revere's Beach to see Don McKibben's new ride. Unfortunately we did not see Don, although we did see his new ride. It is some coaster. "Ride to Death" is my suggestion for a name for it, as it seems to be unlabeled as yet. It is easily the world's best, or worst, ride, depending on how you like such thrillers or don't like them.

We also climbed Bunker Hill monument, 294 steps, which is some stepping for men who have been out of the army for nine years.

Well, must close now, as it is almost boat time and a trip to East Boston, wherever that is, must be made.

lounging suit and was bare headed. He said he expects to remain in London until he hops off for New York.

Levine denied that he would fly back to Le Bourget.

"I am through with all Frenchmen and French Airdromes," he said.

It is understood that Levine is negotiating with W. C. Hinchcliffe, an English commercial pilot, to take the Columbia back to New York.

The American was calm and unruffled over his spectacular landing but he had caused experienced flyers at the Croydon field almost to suffer heart failure as they watched him. Pilots long used to the dangers of the air shuddered as they watched Levine trying to make a crude landing. He was going through evolutions which the most practised airmen would never dream of attempting. Finally two commercial pilots jumped into a small airplane, took the air and circled about the Columbia waving to Levine to attract his attention. Then they made a landing to show him how it should be done.

NEW YORK POLICE OFFICER HELD FOR BRUTAL SLAYING

have been questioned by the police, and both have corroborated that the policeman had been spending money with reckless abandon since Saturday. One of them, Miss Margaret Wogan, of Brooklyn, a 20-year-old telephone clerk, said to be his fiancee, admitted going with Graham Saturday afternoon to buy a snappy roadster, which he paid for with $20 bills. After he bought the car he gave her $900 to "keep for him." The other girl, Marion Scott, hostess in a Coney Island cabaret, told the police of a revel the policeman staged at the cabaret Saturday night during which he passed around $20 bills, to her and others.

"The spirit of 1927—get a lot of money with little effort," remarked a detective after the policeman was arrested.

Most of the payroll was in $20 bills. Consequently, the authorities were today checking with the cashier of the Seaboard National Bank the serial numbers of the bills to see if they tally with those carried by the murder victim.

Examine Bullet

They were also examining a spent bullet found near the scene of the crime to see if it came from the policeman's gun. It had been Graham's duty for weeks to guard Pratt's payroll, and the two men had become friends. On Saturday, however, Graham had not reported for duty, saying he was ill. The authorities believe he met Pratt as the latter was driving to pay off the employes, and killed him. Pratt's body was found propped at the wheel—and the money gone. A bullet picked up near the scene was turned over to the police by a boy.

"Where did you get all the money you were spending?" the police demanded when they arrested Graham.

"My aunt in Albany left me a legacy," he replied, relapsing into a stubborn silence.

When Miss Wogan asked the young policeman where he got his sudden wealth he explained that he had "stuck up a beer truck" and that they gave him the money so he wouldn't arrest them.

The cabaret hostess, Miss Scott, admitted Graham gave her a roll of money when they were drinking. She said she passed it over to a waiter whom she entrusts with her "tips". The waiter is being sought.

Other girl friends of Graham are to be questioned in an effort to check up on the rest of the money. The police know Graham spent $1,680 for a roadster, that he gave Miss Wogan $900, that he "threw" a big champagne party at the cabaret and got rid of many $20 bills, but still there is between $600 and $1,000 to be accounted for.

MRS. S. P. EMERY DIES ON SUNDAY

Wife Of Former Judge Emery Dies After Illness Of Four Months

Following an illness of nearly four months, Mrs. S. Plummer Emery, wife of Ex-Judge S. Plummer Emery, passed from this life Sunday morning, August 28, death occurring in the West Penn Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa., 6:50 o'clock.

The news of her death will come as a shock to the citizens of Lawrence county, for it seemed almost to the last that she was certain to recover. For weeks she had battled the onslaught of disease courageously, and and apparently victory was just within her grasp. The continuous fight she waged finally took its toll and she was unable to repel the last attack which came on Sunday morning.

Of Pioneer Family.

Mrs. Emery came from a pioneer family. She was born in New Castle, a daughter of G. E. Fulkerson and Marian Spence Fulkerson, pioneers who were among the builders of the city and county. As a girl Mrs. Emery attended the New Castle Public schools and finished her education in the private school conducted by Mrs. E. A. Stevenson.

By nature Mrs. Emery was cheerful, and kindly, and her passing will be mourned by thousands of this city who knew her. She loved the city of her nativity, believed in its future and was always willing to aid in the development of any project designed to forward a New Castle cause.

Mrs. Emery was a life-long member of the First Presbyterian church of this city, and was one of the organizers of the Art club of the city. She is survived by her husband, Ex-Judge S. Plummer Emery and a sister, Mrs. L. B. Wirsing of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon, August 31, at 3:00 o'clock from her late home, 118 East North street. Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery. Funeral services and interment will be strictly private. No flowers.

How the Battle Is Finally Won

The progress of medical science in the conquest of disease and suffering is beautifully described by a writer who says:

"The conquest of disease progresses by siege tactics. Over a long period of time slight gains are made, the enemy is weakened little by little and then finally the great walls falls and medicine holds sway over previously unsafe terrain."

Diabettes, cancer, paresis, nephritis, and sleeping sickness are among the dangerous diseases which promise to yield to medical "siege" tactics.

Whenever you attempt to treat your own ills you forego the chance to secure the benefits which can only be had through the physician's attention, and in which time is often one of the greatest factors.

Never defer a trip to the doctor if you suspect that his attention is needed. Make this your prescription drug store.

AFTER THE WHITE HOUSE

THERE is renewed public interest in the careers of ex-presidents as a result of President Coolidge's "choosing" not to run for another term and the likelihood that he will live many years after vacating the white house.

Already he is reported to have been offered membership in a large New York law firm, chairmanship of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, presidency of Amherst College and support as a candidate for United States senator from Massachusetts. There are a multitude of things an ex-president might do, but some of them he cannot do ethically and without sacrifice of dignity and standing.

Lawyer-presidents do not feel, after leaving the white house, that they can ethically practice before the United States supreme court or have their name associated with a law firm that does. Rightly or wrongly, some might feel that undue influence was being exerted upon the court. And it falls upon most presidents to appoint at least one justice to the nation's highest tribunal.

An ex-president is in somewhat the same position when he accepts an important corporate post. Immediately upon accepting such a position he opens himself and his corporation to the charge that the prestige of his former high public office is being exploited for monetary gain and to obtain government concessions.

Not all presidents can—or are qualified to—retire from the presidency into the United States supreme court as was the case with President Taft, and not all can afford to, or care to, retire from active life at the close of their administrations.

Great Britain pensions her lord chancellors when they retire from that office, but grants the pension with the implied obligation that they spend the remainder of their lives in the public service. Presidential pensions would command little or no public favor in this country, but many would like to see ex-presidents, who have proved their worth to the nation, kept in the public service if they so desire. General Pershing, upon his retirement, served the country well as a sort of ambassador-at-large and suggested a use for future ex-presidents.

WHY IS IT NECESSARY?

IT SHOULD be unnecessary to urge voters to participate in primaries or at election. Yet strenuous efforts at the polls fail to produce much better than a 50 per cent vote; while normally the primary record is still worse, in the absence of contests.

The election right is conceded to citizens in order that they may select, directly, their officials. The primary right is granted so they may take part in the choice of candidates.

Obviously it means little, in the absence of a contest, for the voters to go to the polls. It is merely the gesture the good citizen makes but it has no effect aside from that of showing a willingness to inconvenience himself to an extent in the line of his obligations to the community at large.

Where there are contests, however, the situation is different. A citizen may feel that therefore he will not vote at the primary. This attitude is wrong. Where there are two men there is always a comparison.

One is in some way or other a trifle better, a bit more fitted for office, than his opponent. The good citizen, unable to vote for the person he really wishes to support still will take enough interest to make a choice among those who are candidates.

This is the real test for one who it is assumed desires to live up to his civic duties. Let every one of us participate in elections where there are contests in which we certainly have a choice. And let us likewise take an interest in the primary, striving to see the distinction between the different nominees and supporting the one who appears in one way or another more desirable.

RATHER A HEALTHY INFANT

IN YEARS aviation may be an infant industry in this country, but in size it is large enough to wear long trousers. The impression, entertained in some quarters, that it is undersized and undernourished is mistaken and is no doubt the fruit of well-meant criticism by those impatient for American leadership in this important commercial field.

No little surprise is occasioned in most circles when it is pointed out that sixty-seven factories in this country are building airplanes at the rate of more than 1000 a year. Last year they sold 1,186 for $24,161,752 and this year they may double both figures.

Nor has this country refused to invest some of its wealth in aviation. Already $17,000,000 has been spent for airports and that sum is being increased daily. There is $60,,000,000 invested in airplane factories. And corporations now under contract to carry Uncle Sam's mails have investments totaling $10,000,000. Other millions impossible of accurate calculation are working in industries allied with aviation.

While the millions expended annually on aviation by national and state governments are in the interests of military defense, commercial aviation benefits directly and the government's operations must be taken as part of the industry.

There are more than 800 airports scattered over these forty-eight states and 200 more will be established before the end of the year. Behind some of these are the country's 122 aero clubs and other aeronautical organizations.

Aviation has reached the point where even the stubborn reactionary public is convinced the age of commercial aviation is at hand.

Lots of so-called will power is won't power.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight at 6:38. Sun rises tomorrow at 5:26.

Basketball develops the muscles. Fishing the imagination.

Voters should see to it that they are assessed. If this is true they can register and vote at the fall primaries and election. Every American should vote, even if he does it foolishly.

We have heard people cuss out other fellows and those same birds would just dearly love to have the same chaps on their side. Humans are queer things when it comes to personal interest.

The navy might just as well keep on looking for those lost flyers between California and Honolulu. It will be doing something more or less useful while doing that, anyhow.

What New Castle does and makes is what makes New Castle. Don't let that get past you when you think things should be better than they are and what you have been doing to help make things better.

A local man sent a small death notice to two New York newspapers. He got a bill from one for twelve dollars and from the other for fourteen dollars, and not even a paper of a clipping of the notice. The News prints long death notices and gets nothing for it.

It is difficult to tell when you see a lot of old-fashioned furniture in a house whether the family is very poor or very rich.

We have heard of some candidates who made an effort to keep other candidates from advertising too much. That's fence corner stuff and bozos with ideas like that will not get very far. This is an advertising age and cheap skins will stay just where they are and should stay there.

The way most men feel about the proposition that comes up depends a lot on what they hope to get out of it.

A pie-eating contest was stopped almost before it got started because three hundred kids gulped down 30 dozen pies almost before the fun started. Three hundred kids could murder a trainload of any kind of pie, even the kind that seems to be made of fireclay.

Anarchists in Paris desecrated the grave of the unknown soldier in that city. We have an idea of what would happen to those red babies who would be caught doing anything like that in this country. And we would help do it.

The young wife and mayonnaise are what make so many men suffer from anemia.

Our idea of an embarrassing position would be being stopped by a highway policeman while driving a stolen car, a big revolver and a quart of hootch also present. There is no getting away from that.

Our advice to the anarchists in Paris is not to start any rough stuff with the American soldiers when they arrive there next month for the American Legion convention. If they are looking for real sorrowful trouble they will probably find it right at the boat landing if they hunt for it there.

At the coming term of the Butler, Pa., court 40 men will be tried for operating automobiles while intoxicated. It seems to us something fierce should be handed to those bozos.

If there is no other way of attracting attention to yourself there is always the chance to play the bass drum in the band.

We would like to see an ordinance passed in New Castle prohibiting the frying of fish in the city limits on Friday, and especially when it is herring.

Of course, there are people who know just exactly who is going to be nominated at the coming primaries. The same birds do not know anything else, however.

They cannot wait until the elderberries get ripe, but that may be because the half-ripe ones make better hootch. The elderberry blossoms also make a scandalous libation which is very vicious when not inhaled guardedly.

Another good test of will power is to be ashamed to smoke in bed and to want a smoke at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

The officer of the Indian Office at Washington tells of patronizing airs frequently assumed by visitors of the government schools for redskins.

On one occasion a pompus little man was being shown through one institution when he came upon an Indian lad of seventeen years. The worker was engaged in a bit of carpentry, which the visitor observed in silence for some minutes. Then with the utmost gravity, he asked the boy:

"Are you civilized?"

The youthful redskin lifted his eyes from his work, calmly surveyed his questioner, and then replied:

"No, are you?"

Those people who marry in haste these days repent in Paris if they have money enough.

We've located the wettest town in the world. It is Usman in Russia where 10,000 people consumed 109,000 gallons of vodka last year. Of course some of the wet birds in this country will have their own ideas of the wettest spot, but what figures can they present.

The meek may inherit the earth but it is a cinch that they won't hold onto it if they remain meek.

Some of the fanciful minded boys who have made the threats to boycott everything American because of the Massachusetts case, if they attempt to carry out that idea are driving trade from their shores. The business men abroad know the Yanks will spend it and the only way to get it is to keep the Americans coming across. Business in foreign countries will take a decided slump if the Americans decide to see America first.

The reason it is so very hard to lay something by for the necessities of the future is because it's harder to give up the luxuries of the present.

The cocktail shaker we are informed has been eliminated from the films. Evidently the producers found it too trying on the customers.

"BRIDEGROOM BILL"

The executive secretary of the Camden Chamber of Commerce, Mr. William Kennedy, recently announced to the world that he is to be the blushing bridegroom at an October wedding. Mrs. Grace King Stevenson of Chicago is the charming matron who will lead "Our Bill" to the altar.

Announcement in these columns is somewhat needless, as the honored executive secretary has whispered his sweet secret to each member with whom he came in contact.

According to society notices in the local papers, Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Kennedy will be united in holy matrimony at the Episcopal church of the Ascension in Chicago on October 22.

After the wedding the honeymooners will journey to Columbus, O., to attend the meeting of the National Association Commercial Organization Secretaries.

This all may be news to you before you read these lines—but we have this bit of information—Bill can still blush! The blush of youth and romance—the soft eye of the lover—the airy grace of a Romeo—the determination of a Lochinvar who comes from the East—all these are bits of the phenomena which is the man Kennedy!

Surely no Chamber anywhere has a secretary with all these attributes! —From the Chamber of Commerce Bulletin, published in the interests of the Camden, N. J., Chamber of Commerce.

NOTE—The "Bill" Kennedy spoken of above was, during the war, the secretary of the local Board of Trade, and Mrs. Stevenson is the widow of P. K. Stevenson, who was also secretary of the local Board of Trade a few years ago.

The French government recently celebrated officially the 100th anniversary of Beethoven's birth. Beethoven concerts were given, with representatives of the government attending. The fact that Beethoven was of German blood and that the Germans recently killed a good many Frenchmen, made no difference. The French have common sense.

The two greatest Germans ever born, Beethoven and Goethe, were walking side by side, Beethoven with his head down and his hands behind his back. The king and queen came walking in the opposite direction. Goethe stepped aside to let them pass, removing his hat. Beethoven walked straight ahead, the king and queen separated to let Beethoven pass between them. Very likely he did not see them.

London bankers are shipping gold by flying machine. It costs more than by railroad or steamship travel, but gold on its travels earns no interest. The time and interest saved by flying machine more than pays the extra cost.

One British airplane manufacturer, Sir Samuel Instone, says: "In one year we carried ten million pounds across the channel." The interest on ten million dollars amounts to a great deal of money, even for a little while. We shall learn to use flying machines, commercially and for passenger traffic over here eventually.

We may even wish some day that we had taken the trouble to build a fighting air fleet.

Russia is trying to make her people musically artistic, as we are trying to make ours SOBER by law.

The latest Russian regulation forbids sale of phonograph jazz dance records. Such music, Bolshevism says, is "bourgeoise music." That would puzzle African savages that danced to such music long before the bourgeoise was invented.

Regulating the growth of human tastes, ideas and languages by law is one of the most harmful of human contrivances.

The Academy, that strictly limits and regulates the use of the French language, has made of French a most precise language, perfect for diplomacy, but has greatly diminished its beauty and power. The French of Anatole France cannot compare with that of Villon, and because German and English have developed without any academic straitjacket, both are far superior to French in beauty and in literature.

Many Frenchmen of genius, to mention only Corneille and Racine, were hampered by the three classical unities of time, place and action, as much as a Chinese girl's feet by her little shoes.

Men, music, language and habits GROW and cannot be manufactured by arbitrary law.

Young men and older ones interested in radio and science consider this interesting fact, supplied by Mr. Blume, the head of the great Western Electric company, which spends more than ten million dollars a year in scientific laboratory experiments alone.

Mr. Blume's company supplies the mechanism for telephoning across the Atlantic ocean. The telephoning must stop at 1 o'clock by New York City time, when it is 6 o'clock in London. The reason is that as the sun goes down and the shadows fall, talking through the air becomes difficult or impossible. Scientists do not know WHY that is. If you can tell why, you will add to human knowledge.

You read in a Kansas newspaper of the proud achievements of two dogs. In one night they killed 100 sheep, injured 200 others so that many of them will die, causing the farmer a loss of $2,500.

And the two dogs are worth considerably less than ten cents probably —except for soap fat.

There is intelligence lacking somewhere in a country that has more dogs than sheep, when the dogs are useless and the sheep keep down weeds and feed and clothe millions. This is a beautiful country.

Twenty-two million automobiles are running in the United States, and 5,000,000 more will be built by the end of 1927. If an ice age came upon us suddenly—fortunately ice ages never do that—the entire population of the United States could all travel south at one time in cars now running.

In Day's News

Maurice Maeterlinck, who passes his sixty-fifth milestone today, has been foremost for years among the world's poets and dramatists. He has been compared with Shakespeare, even by his enemies. English and American critics knew little about him until his "Princess Maleine" had been translated into English and Beerbohm Tree had introduced one of his plays to a London audience. Then it was that England went wild over Maeterlinck. His works have been translated into practically every European language. All the world knows "The Blue Bird" and other of his plays. Maeterlinck is a Belgian, born at Ghent of Flemish extraction. He was educated for the law, but the life of a barrister did not appeal to him and he turned to the writing of short stories. In 1911 he was awarded the Nobel prize for literture.

INTERNATIONAL CONFABS

The only way to get along in an international conference between representatives of the various nations is to follow the common sense rules that govern conferences of individuals.

The one thing that disturbs the prospects of arriving at any set conclusion between the various nations is the same thing that disturbs the hope of a satisfactory result between different men.

If capitalists and laborers could sit down at a table and banish all hatred and suspicion of one another there would be no trouble in coming to a satisfactory conclusion. The laborer, however, thinks the capitalist too shrewd and always on the lookout to get the advantage of him; the capitalist thinks the laborer ignorant and prejudiced; this prevents arriving at an amicable result.

You cannot have a conference between two or more people and expect a happy conclusion unless you trust one another, unless there is mutual respect.

It is a common failing of every nation to suspect other nations of being shrewder than themselves, wilier and craftier and more selfish.

Each nation regards its own representatives as honest and straightforward dealers and thinks others are crooked. Many papers and many so-called patriots do their best to fan this delusion. Many of them seem to think they are patriotic when they suspect every move of the opposite nation.

Trust and belief are not mere Sunday School things, but they are necessary in all our intercourse one with another. Diplomats as well as individuals must be high-minded and considerate.

The question of reducing armaments is one that concerns the economic prosperity of every nation. Armed forces continue to be the chief source of expenditure all around and it is worth while to get together on the subject of mutual reduction.

It is all a matter of proportion, anyway. It is just as bad and no worse for a nation to have 400,000 tons of ships against another nation's 300,000 as it is to have 40 tons against the other nation's 30 tons. It is a matter of preponderance and it is worth all the endeavor of all high-minded patriots to get together with the representatives of other nations and reduce the amount of armament. Those who have known the horrors and destruction of war must agree with this, and only those who seek to plunge their country into war in order to appeal to a false patriotism are against a reduction of armament.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHO REMEMBERS THE GUTTA?

"Hail, gutta percha, precious gum!" sang the Scotch golfer poet, Dr. Graham, in 1848, when golf balls of the new material first were introduced into the land of cakes and heather.

Now Bobby Jones has brought home with him from the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews a bag of golf balls of the old "gutty" variety. He recommends these to further trial for championship play in the stead of the modern rubber-cored orbs. But the few American advocates of the gutta percha ball and the heirs of "famed Bobson" the ball maker, the manufacturers and prospective manufacturers of this type, need not grow overly optimistic. The champion from Atlanta does not propose to tell the average player what he should use. Bobby Jones has said only that he believes the foremost players should use the "gutties" for future championships because the rubber cored balls are too lively and fly so far they prevent the top players from getting in those finer strokes between holes which add to the pleasures and niceties of the game. The alternative is to continue lengthening the courses, a tendency which Mr. W. C. Fownes, president of the United States Golf Association, long and hitherto almost alone has deplored.

In the earlist days of golf, as we recognize it today, the player used a leather ball stuffed with feathers and sewn by wire. That this type of ball survived in Scotland from the first half of the fifteenth century until the introduction of gutta percha in 1848 may appear to modern golfers sufficient provocation for the learned Dr. Graham's ardent outpouring of verse when he declared of the new balls—

"Ye're keen and certain at a putt—
Nae weet your sides e'er open up—
And though for years your ribs they whup,
Ye'll never moutt a feather."

HER SECOND CHOICE

"If I ever marry again," said she,
"I'll marry a man with a bit of style,
One who will take me the world to see,
One who will care for the things worth while.
For I'll tell you now it's a dreary life
To spend your days as a toiler's wife."

And her first man laughed and he said, "I know
I am far from being a great success,
But, wife of my heart, I love you so,
And I'd sell my soul for your happiness.
But if ever you marry again, perhaps,
It will be with one of the fancy chaps."

And he died a couple of years ago.
And now she's the wife of gentleman.
The pleasures she longed for are hers to know,
For life works out to a curious plan.
But she often disturbs the husband new
By telling him things which the old would do.

For her stylish seoond is weak and vain.
And she isn't quite sure that his heart is true.
And she isn't quite sure that he will remain
Faithful to her till the journey's through.
She carries a purse with a silken string.
But the workingman's love was a finer thing.

Bible Thought For Today

THE HIGHEST ROCK:—Hear my cry, O God attend unto my prayer. From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee: lead me to the rock that is higher than I. Psalm 61: 1, 2.

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN CANADA

This is written in Digby, Nova Scotia. With shame I confess that I never heard of Digby until a few days ago. What interesting and delightful spots there are on the earth that remain unheard of by the average individual!

I have been traveling through interesting parts of the Dominion of Canada, our vigorous sister democracy. I would like to pass on to you some of the impressions that have come to me, a stranger in His Majesty's most promising young dominion.

Out of my window, as I write, I look upon rolling hills, covered with dense growth of pine and fir. The forest marches down to the cold, green water of the Bay of Fundy.

But, although beautiful scenery invites attention, the human things that one notes in a neighboring country contain for me the strongest appeal.

Canadians, as I have been observing them in their cities, villages and country places, seem to me to be the most desirable sort of neighbors. Undoubtedly no little credit for American peace and American peace of mind during the last century or two should go to the peaceful, good-humored neighbors that Providence has given us.

I have never been in Mexico, and the few Mexicans I have ever known have been excellent folk. Nevertheless, I have a feeling that if we had had Canadians to the south of us, all these years, as well as to the north the peace of the Americans would never have been ruffled from within the Americas.

The Canadians, as I see them, are good-humored, polite, enterprising, honest citizens. I find them refreshingly tolerant and forebearing. These qualities are due, in part, to the circumstance that Canadians have learned to live with one another, despite vast divergences in matters of language, religion, culture and traditions.

In Montreal I received my first pleasant surprise when I bought a roll of film for my camera. The young man who sold me the film asked if he might load the camera for me. While doing this service, the salesman talked pleasantly about taking snap-shots, and although I have been taking pictures for fifteen years, he made several suggestions that I have followed with good results.

That little service, and the spirit of it, made that money exceedingly easy to spend!

In New York one hears everywhere the admonition, "Watch your step!" In Canada it is invariably, "Mind the step, please, sir." Unimportant? I wonder.

A bookseller was unable to supply the book I wanted. He spent twenty minutes telling me about other booksellers in the city who might have what I wanted, and he pulled a map of the city from his stock, unfolded it, and showed me exactly how to reach the stores of his competitors. Such courtesy is irresistible. Of course I bought a book.

America's Prosperity Outlined In Revenue Collections For 1927

Treasury Department Issues Figures Showing Over Two Billion Collected.

Nation-Wide "Good Times" Reflected In Report Showing Income Receipts.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—America's prosperity was amply demonstrated today in an announcement by the treasury department that a flood of $2,865,682,129.91 had poured into Uncle Sam's coffers from internal revenue collections during the fiscal year of 1927.

This total, five times greater than the government's income in the last year before the war, was the sixth highest in America's existence and the largest since some wartime taxes were repealed in 1922. Although rates were lower on all taxes save assessments against corporations, the government's income for the 12 months ending last June was $29,683,237.72 nigher than in the preceding year.

To make up this enormous peacetime total, American individuals paid $911,939,910.82 on income taxes, an increase of $32,815,503.66 over 1926, while corporations paid $1,308,012,532.90, an increase of $213,032,798.73 over the preceding year. The next largest source of income was the tobacco tax, which netted $376,170,205.04, an increase of $5,503,766 even with a slash in cigar taxes. The tobacco tax was so large, the treasury said, "due mostly to the increased manufacture and sale of cigarettes, which greatly exceeded any previous year.

Miscellaneous taxes, most of which were sharply reduced, brought in a total of $269,560,436.15, exclusive of tobacco. This represented a loss in income of $222,801,031.81. The largest sources of the loss were the repeal of the capital stock tax and the reduction of automobile taxes, which were $46,695,000 lower than in 1926.

Shows Prosperity.

The report of Internal Revenue Commissioner David H. Blair showed a general condition of prosperity. The custom house district of New York again led in total collections with $387,949,644 while the Chicago district ranked second with $206,237,166 and Raleigh, N. C., due to cigarette taxes, third with $205,651,675.

The greatest comparative gain in total collections of all federal taxes were made by Wilmington, Del., with a 32 per cent gain and Richmond, Va., third with a 30 per cent increase. The largest comparative losses in collections were recorded by Grand Rapids, Mich., with a 57 per cent drop. Helena, Mont., with a 52 per cent decline and Aberdeen, S. D., with a 26 per cent decrease.

Another sign of nation-wide "good times" was seen in the report of total income tax collections. Only six of the 48 states showed a loss in total income tax receipts as compared to 1926. The greatest comparative gain in income tax collections, personal and corporation, was recorded by Delaware with a 50 per cent increase. Oklahoma stood second with a 47 per cent gain and Idaho third with a 27 per cent increase. The states showing comparative losses were Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon and Rhode Island.

The five richest commercial states, according to total revenue collections, were New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, North Carolina and Michigan. In order of total collections from individual income taxes, New York again ranked first with Pennsylvania, Illinois, California, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey following. In total collections on corporation income taxes, New York also led with Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Massachusetts and California next.

Despite the tremendous receipts, Blair's report failed to touch at all on the subject of tax reduction. He offered no recommendations.

The city engineer estimated the cost of the sewer at $2,499.25. Olsen Company's bid amounted to $2,448.50. Two other bids were as follows: Elder & Ferry, $3,343.20, and Woods & Golder, $3,148.50.

Men's Bible Class Of Nazarene Church Have Good Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Philemon Men's Bible Class met Saturday evening at the home of J. Thomas on Harbor street. The meeting was presided by the president, George Hackett. John Liversage, the secretary assisted. An opening hymn was sung and prayer was offered by Ira Blair. The regular business was then transacted after which a social time was enjoyed by all. The Men's quartet sang two lively and amuseing numbers, entitled, "My Own's Love Song" and "Hie Away Home." These brought happy laughter and a hearty responsive encore. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas, assisted by Mrs. Robison, Mrs. Wheale and Mrs. Heckathorn.

The class will hold a corn roast at the home of H. L. Dean, just outside of Princeton on Friday night of this week. They will meet at the Nazarene church, W. Falls and Beaver street at 6:30 p. m., D. S. T.

City Engineer To Tighten Manhole Lids

Will Prevent Water From Seeping Above Lids During Rain Falls

As a result of Councilman Tyler's information to council today, sitting regularly in council chambers, city hall, the lids on five manholes, between the ejector station, Lacock street and the P. R. R. tracks will be made secure.

Tyler complained that with each succeeding hard rain and consequent rising of the water in the Shenango river, water is forced back and the water seeps from around the loose manholes. The city engineer will be in charge of the work.

COUNCIL OPENS BIDS ON PAVING

Greenwood Avenue And Young Street Bids Are Submitted

Bids for the paving of Greenwood avenue between West Washington and State streets, and Young street, between Wallace and Lincoln avenues, were opened by city council in city hall today while councilmen were in formal session. Pending a report and recommendation from the city engineer the awarding of contracts was delayed.

The estimate presented by Municipal Engineer Frank Miller and the bids follow:

Greenwood avenue: estimate—brick, $9,808.75; concrete, $9,459; sheet asphalt, $9,524.75; amiesite, $9,156.75; Kentucky rock, $9.156.75.

Olsen Company: brick, $10,054.75; concrete, $9,495.50; sheet asphalt, $9,474.75; amiesite, $9,474.75; Kentucky rock, $9,474.75.

Woods & Golder: brick, $10,306; concrete, $9,432; amiesite or Kentucky rock, $9,470. No bid for sheet asphalt.

Young street: estimate—brick, $4,905; concrete, $4,756.95; sheet asphalt, $4,703.60; amiesite, $4,602.90; Kentucky rock, $4,602.90.

Olsen Company: brick, $5,068; concrete, $4,817.10; shee asphalt, $4,816.25; amiesite or Kentucky rock, $4,816.25.

Woods & Golder: brick, $5,353.30; concrete, $4,922.40; amiesite or Kentucky rock, $4,950.50. No bid for sheet asphalt.

Councilmen stated that it may be necessary to have the city secure a house at Greenwood avenue between North and State streets, as some of them believe it blocks a clear view.

Railway Company Job Unsatisfactory

Harmony Route Officials To Pave To Miller's Satisfaction

Municipal Engineer Frank Miller today informed members of council, during their regular meeting in City Hall, that he is not satisfied with the way in which the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle railway company has paved between the tracks at the intersection of Winslow and Stanton avenues.

As a result of his information, council instructed Solicitor White to request the company to pave to Mr. Miller's satisfaction and if they fail the city will order a contractor to do the work and if necessary stop traffic while the work is being done.

RESIDENTS OF STATE PAY MORE INCOME TAX IN PAST YEAR

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—Pennsylvania people paid 14 per cent more to the federal government in income taxes in the fiscal year 1927 than they did in the fiscal year 1926, while the increase for the country as a whole was only 12 per cent.

Pennsylvania also paid almost three times as much as any other state in taxes on cigars, and was one of the states reporting the largest collections on cigarets. Pennsylvania last year paid to the federal government $7,027,090.98 in cigar taxes, $10,092,839.97 in cigaret taxes and $784,577.34 in taxes on manufactured tobacco and snuff.

A preliminary report made today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue David H. Blair disloses that during the fiscal year 1927, which ended June 30, Pennsylvanians paid $133,700,352.08 in corporations income and profit taxes, $89,215,269.65 in individual income taxes and $35,848,182.69 in miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, including the tobacco tax.

Pennsylvania's corporations and individuals have been steadily increasing the income and profits taxes they have paid in the last three years, despite the fact that a reduction in the income tax rate has gone into effect during the period.

During the fiscal year 1925, Pennsylvania corporations and individuals paid $189,164,203.75 in income taxes; in 1926 they paid $195,395,832.62, and in 1927 they paid $222,915,621.73. Pennsylvania was exceeded only by New York in income taxes paid last year.

Pennsylvania ranked fourth in the amount paid on documentary stamps, paying $610,954.26 in taxes on bonds of indebtedness, capital stock issues, etc., and $236,920.40 in taxes on capital stock transfers and sales.

Pennsylvania was eighth among the states in the taxes paid on automobiles and motorcycles manufactured there, paying $655,240.33 on these items. The state was third in the amount of taxes paid on admissions to theaters and other places of amusement, paying $1,556,998.19 in such taxes. The state paid $11,253.70 in taxes on playing cards manufactured there.

The internal revenue office at Scranton showed a decrease of 4 per cent in total collections there, while the Philadelphia office showed an increase of 1 per cent and the Pittsburgh office an increase of 7 per cent as compared with 1926.

The principal increase in the revenue from miscellaneous taxes for the fiscal year 1927 came from tobacco and its manufactures. Total tax receipts fom this source amounted to $376,170,205.04. The increase of $6,635,922.14 was mostly due to the increased manufacture and sale of cigarets, which greatly exceeded any previous year.

The increase in the cigaret taxes paid in the year amounted to $4,063,965.93 and the increase in the tax receipts from cigaret papers and tubes amounted to $108,880.80.

The total internal revenue receipts of the federal government in the fiscal year 1927 amounted to $2,865,683,129.91, as compared with $2,835,999,892.19 in the fiscal year 1926.

Income tax receipts jumped from $1,974,104,141.33 in 1926 to $2,219,952,443.72 in 1927.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

This is the season for corn, and while many of us maintain that no way of cooking can make it taste better than on the cob, there are many ways that allow one to eat it more genteely, perhaps. For a quickly prepared meal the water in which it is to be boiled may be put on while the corn is stripped of its hulls. It is seasoned with salt and a bit of sugar, but strictly speaking these should not be added until the corn has been cooking for 10 minutes or is done. Some like to boil corn in milk, and it is delicious cooked that way. Recipes for deviled corn and corn pudding are included in today's recipes.

Deviled Corn Bacon
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Buttered Cabbage
Whole Wheat Rolls Melons
Coffee Crackers

TODAY'S RECIPES

Deviled Corn—Two tablespoons butter or savory fat, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, paprika, two cups corn pulp (fresh or canned), one egg, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, crumbs. Make a sauce of the fat, flour and seasonings, add corn, egg slightly beaten and Worcestershire sauce. Pour into a baking dish, cover with crumbs mixed with a little butter and bake until crumbs are brown.

Corn Pudding—Three cups grated corn, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, pepper, one tablespoon melted fat, one pint milk. Beat the eggs slightly, add the other ingredients and pour into a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until firm. Chopped green pepper may be added if desired

Fried Corn—Raw corn or leftover corn may be used. Cut from the ear and fry in fat. Two or three sliced onions may be added if desired. Season with salt and pepper.

Canapes are appetizers in individual form usually served at the beginning of a formal dinner. They may be served hot or cold according to taste and if served away from the table should be such that they may be taken in the fingers to be eaten. Served at the table with a sauce they are eaten with a fork.

Summer Cottage "Cellar".

A satisfactory cellar for a summer cottage may be made by digging a hole large enough to set a 24-inch sewer pipe into. Stones or brick may be set at the bottom, and if this "cellar" is kept covered butter and milk will keep nicely.

CRAP SHOOTERS FLEE IN EVERY DIRECTION AS OFFICERS APPEAR

Overhead the sun was concealed behind a bank of clouds, the air was cool but not too cool, just an August Sabbath afternoon, when most people with automobiles were out riding, and as the boys in question thought, the dogs of the law should be home enjoying the Sunday paper.

Up near the East Side standpipe, sometimes known as the Crap Shooters Paradise, the class had gathered, some 75 in number. For years they had gathered in that neighborhood on pleasant Sunday afternoons for the purpose of illustrating some mathematical problems, the problems being to prove that seven and eleven far exceed a pair of deuces or a pair of sixes.

The Family was There

The family was all present. Little Pheobe, Little Joe, Big Dick, Snake Eyes, Box Car and Eighter from Decatur. The baby needed new shoes and the boys were assiduously endeavoring to persuade the Dixie Dominoes to Come To Daddy.

On the ground were bills of all sizes and descriptions, except the gas bill and the electric light bill. Coats were draped carelessly over bushes, hats were parked on the ground and some of the shooters had their sleeves rolled up.

Over the pleasant Sabbath afternoon air floated out such fervent requests at "hit me dice," "wham, and she reads seven, shoot the works, get hot bones, another five he comes," and the rest of the jargon familiar to the disciples of the galloping cubes.

And then. Ah, and then!

Comes the law, as the movie subtitles would have it. Headed by the burly form of County Detective William G. Fleming, five officers hove into sight.

Confusion reigns in the inner circle of crap shooters. Shots are heard. Hands are stepped upon as some hardy soul reaches for the pot. The crowd scatters like sheep before a pack of wolves and in a trice the hillside is filled with fleeting forms. Hatless, caring not for the manner in how they escaped, only to escape.

Six of the luckless brethern ran plop into the arms of the law and justice was upheld once more. It makes small difference who the six were, you wouldn't recognize their names, and its doubtful if they would themselves if they were called by that name today.

"Never give your right name" is one of the cardinal principles of a crap shooter and the boys were all regular. Squire Marshall is taking good care of the boys today with contributions from them amounting to about fourteen dollars.

And thus an outdoor gathering of citizens was dispelled.

Following a most successful season, the Y. W. C. A. camp at Eastbrook was brought to a close.

The camp enjoyed a banner year, in spite of inclement weather conditions. Large numbers took advantage of the outdoor summer home and according to reports all were satisfied.

It is hoped that the season of 1928 will eclipse that of this year and that even larger numbers of campers be accommodated next year.

The Y. W. C. A. camp opened last June 20.

CHANCES OF SELLING SHIPS OF SHIPPING BOARD POOR

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—President Coolidge is urging the United States shipping board to make another strenuous effort to get the national mercantile marine out of the government's and into private hands.

His suggestion that it be done immediately is the best presidential joke in this country's history up to date.

If it can be done at all it will be a miracle.

We had a fine privately owned merchant fleet when the American republic was young—at least the equal of any on earth. All of us have heard of "the old clipper ship days," with our flag flying on every sea.

This fleet decayed; finally all but disappeared from the oceans.

It is not hard to understand why. Shipping's profits were small compared with the enormous returns from opening up the west. Our importers and exporters hired alien bottoms to carry their goods.

The World war found us with practically no mercantile marine of our own whatever—a few craft on the Pacific, a little coastal trade—nothing else. And immediately all the foreign vessels we had been employing were withdrawn.

The situation was difficult and became absolutely impossible when we entered the conflict.

Shipping, for many years previously an industry of exceedingly narrow margins, had become temporarily very profitable, despite its risks from raiders, surface and submarine, but the emergency was too urgent to wait for private enterprise to take advantage of it; so the government began building in desperate haste and turned out, at fancy prices, the most amazing flotilla of open-work crates, concrete troughs and leaky tea kettles in maritime history, sacred or profane.

The war over, the point was speedily raised that merchant shipping is no suitable business for the government to be in—any more than railroading or telegraphy, which some governments do engage in, as a matter of fact, but which most of us, here in America, regard as much better left to private concerns.

Finding buyers for the government's fleet, however, did not prove to be so easy.

For the vessels of the fruit basket, masonry and tinware types of construction there naturally was no market at any price. True, there were exceptions. Some of the craft of our own make were reasonably seaworthy, though mostly unduly costly to operate. There were also the ships we had seized from Germany—all that any owner could ask.

Yet, peace having been restored and the opportunity for demanding enormous rates being cut off, shipping, at best, was not the bonanza it had been.

It is especially an expensive game out of American ports.

We all know that prices here are high. Our industries must pay more for accommodations, machinery, material, labor and every item of overhead than those of any other land.

This does not matter so much to the manufacturer, for example.

His operating costs are stiff, but so are the prices he is able to charge his American customers, within the protection of a high tariff wall.

The shipowner's expenses are practically as high as the manufacturer's.

He builds, or his building was done for him by the government, in an American yard, at American prices. He mans his vessels with Americans, at American wages—our shipping laws provide for that. He must outfit, at least in part, with American supplies.

His original investment and current expenses are on an American price basis.

The rates he is able to charge are determined by conditions prevailing outside the American tariff wall, minus an additional reduction he is compelled to make, due to the circumstances that all his most formidable competitors are heavily subsidized by their respective governments, and try to cut under him proportionately.

Is is surprising that the American shipowner has been an exceedingly chary bidder on the government's fleet?

He has, indeed, taken over just one, and only one, class of lines which the shipping board has pestered him to buy. He has bought, at a small fraction of what they cost the government, the lines which the shipping board, by actual experiment, has demonstrated can be made to pay pretty well.

The shipping board looks like a mighty poorly managed outfit, if you study its balance sheet. Starting with a fleet which cost, or has had put into it since, 3½ billions, it has lost three billions, according to President Coolidge. Not much to brag about!

But it's no wonder.

The board has been required to sell every ship it possibly could. The only ones it could sell were the ones which paid. The losers it has been forced to keep and operate.

The president expresses the opinion that it is down to nothing but losers now.

He wants them disposed of "immediately."

Quite naturally. Who wouldn't? But—a fat chance!

Corn Borers Travel In Motorist's Cars

Tourists Responsible For Spread Of Pest In Some Parts Of County

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 29.—Corn borers and tourists are strange companions but they have been known to travel together, entomologists of the Pennsylvania State College declared today. While the tourists are on pleasure bent, the corn borer takes his trip more seriously, for he is out to take toll from America's $2,000,000,000 corn crop.

Sometimes the tourists are innocent carriers of the borer, but often its spread over long distances is directly charged to the carelessness of motorists. There are numerous instances recorded by corn borer patrolmen where cars destined for points as far as Texas have been found to contain ears infested with the insect.

Flying by night, the borer moth is difficult to detect. It is quite possible for one of the female adults to fly into an automobile, secrets herself with coming daylight, and be carried hundreds of miles. Then when night falls she may emerge, deposit her eggs, and start up a settlement of corn destroyers in what has been clean territory.

Tourists are reminded that corn must not be carried out of infested territory into clean regions. The ears may contain larvae which will start new outbreaks of the pest. Guards stationed along the quarantine line are inspecting cars for the presence of corn products. They must have hearty cooperation if the borer is to be kept within bounds.

LAW BREAKERS ON VACATION?

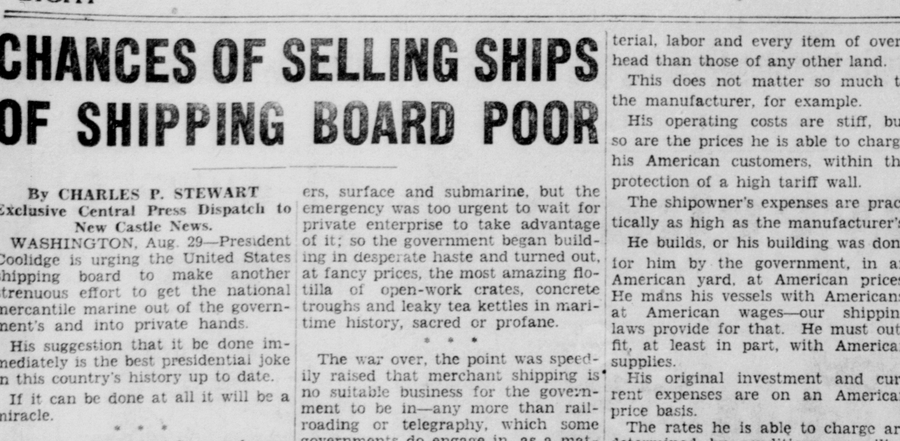

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Aug. 29.—Not only are the courts of Mercer county in recess during the vacation period but the county jail register would indicate the condition also exists among the criminal class for not a prisoner has been admitted now for a week.

The fact is epochal and without parallel for years at least.

Vacation period reigns supreme among the county barristers the number of legal documents filed indicate.

Of recent date in the Court of Common Pleas office not even a paper was filed for an entire day and not even a docket receipted.

FOR PEACE

Plans for extending Rotary clubs into Germany are important. Clubs which reach over boundary lines, working for the same principles of service and fellowship in 40 different countries, form one of the world's most powerful factors for peace.

International peace will not be made lasting by treaties or at the tables of diplomats. It will be made in the hearts of men as they cooperate in common purposes.

THE SUN CURE

Seventy-five women per 100,000 of the population died of tuberculosis in Chicago last year. In the same period 90 men out of every 100,000 died from the same disease. Sunshine and air are the great foes of tuberculosis. Women wear fewer clothes than men. Hence they are healthier. Men, less hardy than women, think they can't stand the weather.

GETTING SOMEWHERE

Crude oil and gasoline are obtained from coal by a new process in Germany. The process is practical. Germany is expected to produce 20 per cent of the nation's gasoline by synthetic methods next year. Little by little pure science is being translated into industrial practice. Watch the Standard Oil company. We will soon have the same process in America.

FITTING FOR LIFE

Someone has been defining the duty of a college as fitting men and women for future problems. Education ought to do more than that. Education ought to fit men and women to live to the utmost, to appreciate the better, finer things of life. To make a man efficient ought to be only one of the results of education.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Churches of all denominations added about a half million members last year. Thousands of those new members were youngsters who joined simply because it was the habit of the family. Others joined because it seemed the ordinary, normal thing to do. How many came into the church as the result of thinking the thing through? How many decided they could do more for themselves and others through the agency of the church? Mere additions in membership mean little.

What are the people in the churches really thinking? What are they doing?

White-Feathered Hens Lead Keystone Layers

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 29.—White Leghorns captured the first five places in every division of demonstration farm flocks during July, the Pennsylvania State College poultry extension service reported today.

John Toivonen's 237 birds at Girard led the flocks of 100 or more pullets with 23 eggs each. Other high flocks were those of H. C. Riddle, Harrisville, 150 pullets, 22.9 eggs each; Mrs. P. H. Helm, Jackson Center, 130 pullets, 21.2 eggs; H. P. Riley, Dallas, 20.7 eggs, and Joseph Hillier, Cooperstown, 281 pullets, 20.7 eggs.

Leadership among the flocks of 50 or more hens was established with a record of 21 eggs each by 200 hens in the flock of S. G. Green, Rome. Next best laying achievements were made by the flocks of Lone Oak Farm, Emporium, 96 hens, 20 eggs each; John Toivonen, Girard, 280 hens, 19.9 eggs; C. D. Sandt, Mt. Bethel, 89 hens, 19.7 eggs, and F. B. and M. M. Yockey, Apollo, 575 hens, 19.2 eggs.

Supremacy in the flocks of 100 or more hens and pullets went to 179 birds owned by S. F. Hassenplug, Newton Hamilton. They averaged 22.6 eggs each. Other high marks were credited to the flocks of J. M. Dunlap, Shippensburg, 113 birds, 22.4 eggs each; Charles J. Platt, Rummerfield, 160 birds, 21.8 eggs; Edwin B. Wallis, Liverpool, 212 birds, 21.4 eggs, and John C. BEAR NO MATCH FOR HIM

ROCHELLE PARK, N. J., Aug. 29.—George Romanoff, heavyweight wrestler, lost a match with a brown wrestling bear at an amusement park before a huge crowd. When he realized that he was no match for the bear he dived over the ropes, but the bear gave pursuit. Romanoff ran shouting toward the Saddle river, the bear only a few feet behind. The wrestler finally saved himself by swimming across.

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—Urns containing the ashes of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were turned over to Undertaker Joseph Langone at Forest Hills cemetery crematory today and the undertaker in turn delivered them to Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti.

The ashes go to New York this afternoon to lead a Sacco-Vanzetti "march of sorrow" by New York sympathizers.

Meanwhile, police and fire department officials in Boston and Cambridge were searching for the firebug ring which caused eight fires in the two cities during the Sacco-Vanzetti funeral parade yesterday. Four of the fires were in empty fire stations. Two false alarms aided to the confusion.

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY IS WOUNDED

Gerald Coryea, Of Millburn, Is Accidentally Shot By His Brother

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 29.—Gerald Coryea, twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Coryea, residing in the vicinity of Millburn, four or five miles south of this place, was brought to the Mercer hospital yesterday as the result of being accidentally shot in the thigh with a 22 calibre rifle bullet.

According to the reports here, the family had been visiting in Ellwood City, and had returned home. Young Coryea, with his younger brother thought to have a celebration for their return. Thinking that it was unloaded, the younger boy pointed it toward the older and touched the trigger, with the result that Gerald was shot in the thigh.

It is believed that the boy will recover.

Some Local Comment, Ideas And Suggestions As Given To News Man

By ALFRED SWIFT

WILLIAM REESE.
718 Blaine Street.

I cannot understand why the railroad stations at New Castle seem to be so much poorer than they are in any other town around here. Now, if one goes down to West Pittsburg, a little town like that, he will see a station that is much superior in every way to the ones that we have here

To me it seems that a railroad station is one of the indicators of the town's prosperity and I am sure that the people of New Castle and the industries of New Castle, deserve a much better break than they are getting.

M. BLAU.
Mill and Long.

Browns will be the big thing this fall. Every time that we get a consignment of goods the prevailing tone is brown. Brown in hats, brown in suits and brown in ties—in fact, there seems to be brown in everything that the young man will wear this fall.

MORRIS L. MINZER.
Long Avenue.

I remember that during the war when people were making so much money, they lived higher than they are doing now and at the same time, they laughed at the idea of buying the same things that they are buying now.

Why cannot people be taught to save so that when they are stricken with "hard times" they have something to fall back on?

To me this always has seemed rather queer, but I suppose that it is just human nature.

DORA WINICK.
410½ Lyndal Street.

On the last Dempsey-Tunney fight I won six dollars. Although I do not think that Dempsey is the best man, yet I am betting the same six dollars the same way this time, but I suppose that I shall lose.

However even if I do lose I shall be even so I dont care much.

Special Service At City Mission

W. R. Black will speak Tuesday evening, August 30 at the City Mission, 17 South Mercer street. Miss George and Miss Sadie Lewis, evangelist singers will render special music.

A fine musical program will be given. On Thursday evening the regular Bible class will be held with Frank Geiger teaching. Other services will be held during the week as usual.

Don't despair. Think how much better off the world would be if Napoleon, Wilhelm and a host of others had amounted to nothing.

PLAINGROVE HONORS LAST SURVIVOR OF 84 CIVIL WAR VETERANS

Republicans have been charged with forgetfulness, but the allegation cannot be laid against the people of Plaingrove township. They remember and appreciate service and sacrifice, and on Saturday, August 27 six hundred or more of them gathered at the Plaingrove Presbyterian church to pay homage to Corporal John A. Magee the last of the Plaingrove men who volunteered for service in '61.

It was an unusual sort of gathering. Here was a man whose name is seldom seen in the press dispatches, an aged man of 82 years, beloved by the community to be sure, but not a prominent figure in the day's news. And yet 600 people laid down their daily duties on Saturday to show him that they still appreciated his loyalty to the Union back in the days when men's souls were tried.

CORP. JOHN A. MAGEE

Picnic Dinner First.

Some time after 11 o'clock they began gathering at the Plaingrove Presbyterian church. From all parts of the township they came, most of them in cars, but a few in horse drawn vehicles. And with them baskets that seemed to groan under a burden of fried spring chicken, potato salad and roasting ears.

Tables were spread under the trees of the church grounds and the women of the Plaingrove Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches assembled the baskets and served the dinner. The covering over the tables was not a golden studded ceiling, but a canopy of green branches through the blue of a summer sky trickled. There was little trick china on the table, but a wealth of wholesome food prepared as only country women can do it. And how that crowd made away with it!

Following the dinner the program in the church was presented. G. A. Hamilton general chairman of the day graciously yielded the chairmanship on the platform to Rev. J. C. Hughes who spoke briefly and then introduced the speakers.

Many Addresses.

All of the addresses were good and all of them were eulogistic of the services of the gentleman who was being honored, Corporal John A. Magee. The speakers were Attorney James A. Chambers, Attorney Samuel L. McCracken, Rev. F. B. Shumaker, Rev. John Cameron, Rev. J. A. McDonald and of course Mr. Magee.

Time has dealt kindly with Corporal Magee and despite his 82 years he has as keen a memory as he had 25 years ago a voice still firm and commanding and his remarks were easily the feature of a splendid program. A male quartet pleased with several selections.

As a pretty courtesy for the men of the World war to the surviving veteran of the Civil War the men of the Slippery Rock Post American Legion presented Mr. Magee with a handsome chair and wished him many years in which to enjoy it.

Corporal John A. Magee was a member of the famous Roundheads During the stirring days of the Civil war no unit saw more bitter fighting than did this wonderful old organization and it it no men served any more loyally and faithfully than did the men of Plaingrove township. All of them but John A. Magee have gone to the Great Assembly.

When the day does come when Corporal Magee answers the bugle call of the Angel Gabriel and he reassembles with his old messmates, one of the pleasant things he can recount to them will be the testimonial meeting held for him in the Plaingrove Presbyterian church, Saturday, August 27, 1927.

Will Not Warp.

Wooden washtubs, buckets and wine barrels should not be left empty for any length of time or they will dry out, warp and finally fall apart. Cover the bottoms with about two inches of water and this will prevent shrinkage and drying out.

Predict Thousand Airports By 1928

Paved Fields Are Being Urged For Planes—Used In Europe

More than 1,000 airports and intermediate fields will dot the United States from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico by the end of 1927, according to the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce.

A survey just completed by the Air Information Division Shows 865 permanent fields now in use, with 187 cities definitely considering the establishment of municipal airports. Of present fields, 207 are municipally owned. Chambers of Commerce, business clubs and other civic organizations are cooperating in the effort to build up a complete airway and airport system, it is stated.

Many authorities are urging permanent construction for airport buildings and especially for fields and runways. Planes for projected buildings and especially for fields and runways. Planes for projected lines, carrying as many as thirty passengers, such as the Ford line between Chicago and Los Angeles, and seven or eight ton freight planes will require rigid landing surfaces. Turf and cinders, it is claimed, will not stand the wear.

Capt. Donald E. Keyhoe, flying aide to Colonel Lindbergh on his tour of 75 cities, recommends runways of concrete 100 feet wide, and Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., suggests that entire fields be of concrete, particularly since this permits landing and "taking-off" regardless of weather conditions.

European fields are leading in the use of concrete, runways of this material being reported in service at the Croydon Airdrome in England and at airports at Dessau, Germany and Tempelhof, near Berlin.

North Carolina State Plans For Fast Grid Team

(International News Service)

RALEIGH N. C., Aug. 27.—State College here is planning to put out one of the classiest grid teams in the Southern Conference this year and will take on some of the biggest teams in the south.

With 12 of the 19 monogram men of 1927 returning this fall and with an array of other material, Wolfpack is expected to be stronger than in several years.

Among the even dozen letter men returning are Captain Nicholson, Ford and Vaughn, guards; Evans, tackle; Goodwin, end; McDowell, Runsucker, Crum, Outen, Melton and Morris, backs.

G. K. ("Gus") Tebell will have charge of the Wolfpack's destiny for the third successive season and will be assisted by E. R. ("Butch") Slaughter former all-American guard of the University of Michigan and R. R. Sermon who will return to State for another year.

The training season at State begins September 5.

Enon Valley Man's Auto Is Stolen

J. C. McClain of Enon Valley, R. D. No. 2, reported Saturday night to the police that his Chevrolet touring car, 1923 model, Pennsylvania license 331-293, had been stolen from in front of the First Methodist Episcopal church on North Jefferson street.

Rev. S. B. Copeland Returns From Vacation

Rev. S. B. Copeland, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian church of this city, has returned from his annual vacation trip. While away, Rev. Copeland spent two weeks at points in Canada. He also spent a few days at Chautauqua and attended the New Wilmington conference and the annual Bible School at Grove City.

Football Camp Cook Is Ready For Week's Battle

It is often quoted for the benefit of the sweet young darling about to enter the lion's den, or the sea of matrimony, non-stop, that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. This applies to football players as well.

One of the first thoughts of the young gridders as they descended upon the quiet, serene atmosphere of Muddy Creek Falls last night, was "Is the cook here?"

The youngsters were informed that the preparers of the delicious victuals were on hand. This statement seemed to satisfy the boys and they made hasty tracks for bed.

Two healthy practice sessions a day helps to sharpen the appetite of the gridders, and they are ready to eat when the time comes. The meals at the football camp are excellent.

Last year when it came time to break camp, the boys gave three lusty, and long cheers for everybody concerned, and the cooks came in for their share of the lion's applause.

The parents of the boys who attend the high school training camp, can rest assured that the lads will be given plenty to eat.

Yes the cooks are on hand at the grid camp and if you are fortunate enough to receive an invitation to dine with the gridders, do not refuse. You can't go wrong.

Dr. Jordan Will Make Address At Indianapolis

Dr. Charles G. Jordan, state secretary of agriculture, who was in this city yesterday and occupied the pulpit at the Central Presbyterian church has been kept quite busy touring the state and addressing farmer's gatherings during the past few weeks. His schedule for the next few weeks is also filled. During the coming week Dr. Jordan will make the principal address at the Indiana State fair at Idianapolis.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY Florence Smith Vincent

"NOBODY HOME"

"Oh!" cried Peter, and stamped his foot. In the twinkling of an eye he found himself looking at nothing but the glossy box. The head and feet had disappeared. The boy tapped sharply upon the lid that covered them.

"Don't go in hiding again, old fellow! Come out of your shell! There are lots of things I want to know," said he.

"Well, you can't find them out now. I am not so silly as to come out while a two-legs is mad. No, siree! Folks must keep their temper and treat me kindly if they expect I am going to speak to them! I did nothing to make you angry!" Half smothered but as gruff as ever came the voice from under the box.

"Angry!" exclaimed the boy. For a moment Peter was surprised. He couldn't think what made the creature think he had lost his temper. Then he remembered. Peter laughed.

"So you thought I stamped my foot because I was mad at you. Well, you're all wrong. True, I did lose my temper, but just for a moment. I was provoked at my own self for not knowing who you were the moment I set eyes on you. I hate to be so stupid, and after all the time I have spent in animal land, too! Be a sport and forget it! Come out from cover, Turtle, and let's be friends. I am sorry I frightened you. I'll try not to again."

"OH DEAR!" CRIED THE BOY AND STAMPED HIS FOOT

At these words out popped that head and those legs. For the second time the box came to life and now the wide mouth was stretched in a friendly grin.

"Oh, you didn't scare me a bit—only jarred me a little, that's all!" Turtle sneezed and snorted. "So you think you were stupid not to recognibe me at sight, heh? Well, it may surprise you to learn that you haven't recognized me yet. That was a mighty good guess you made, but not quite right. Evidently I am the first one of my race you have ever met or you would have known who I was when I drew in my head and legs out of sight! Not any of my cousins, the Turtles—and I ought to know, for they are my cousins—can close up their front door quite tight and make believe there's 'nobody home' to even the insects. Most of them have to leave their heads and feet outside when they go inside their houses."

ROUGHNECK COPS WANTED

HACKETTSTOWN, N. J., Aug. 29.—"I urge you to appoint to the police force a well paid, blasphemous roughneck, who can detect crime and fill your jails, instead of those who can show competency only in psalm singing and Bible reading," wrote John K. Mills to the common council of his town after his stable was burned and his factory dynamited the following day.

Here's Chief's Explanation For Muny Bunk Room

"There is a somewhat mistaken impression at the present time," remarked Chief of Police Henry Dysart this morning, "that the police should not grant the request of down and out men, who happen to be passing along this way, for a night's lodging.

"The police have found that the reverse is the thing best fitted to meet the need created by the presence of these men, who are coming now in ever increasing numbers as the winter season approaches.

"There should be a place to house these men at night. Most of them are older men and practically all are in unfortunate circumstances, for one reason or another, principally the present lack of employment, which keeps them without funds and results in their traveling from place to place in search of employment. A vast majority of these men are honest and are really seeking employment.

"It's not the humanitarian side of the questionn that actuates the police in being in favor of taking care of these men. There is a more material and selfish side of the question. We would rather know where these strangers are, when they come to the city, than to have them roaming at large. If there are any thugs among them, they are better in the police bunkroom than roaming about the city seeking an opportunity to commit a robbery. Then there is the side of the honest but down and out man, who might, because of his necessity, commit a robbery or some other depredation to relieve his needs. When they are in the bunkroom we know where to look for them and our experience is that it has kept down the number of law violations that might have otherwise been expected and occur."

Chicago Soloist At Park Tonight

Will Sing To Orchestra Music While Patrons Dance At Cascade

Hugh Ebert, soloist, Chicago, with the orchestra from Cascade Park, appeared before the Rotary Club at their weekly Monday luncheon at noon today. Mr. Ebert, renowned as a soloist in the park orchestra field, will appear nightly at Cascade Park, singing to the orchestra music while the patrons of Rainbow Terrace dance.

Manager Carl Shaner also announced that he is mapping out plans for one of the biggest attendances of the season at the park Labor Day. There will be many features, among them a pyrotechnical display, athletic contest and several renowned speakers.

While the regular 1927 park season will close Sunday, Sept. 11, or the first Sunday following Labor Day, the dance pavilion will be kept open as long as weather permits. It is probable that the Chicago soloist will continue until the terrace is closed.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

California must have issued more auto licenses than Pennsylvania this year. Noted a car on the streets here, yesterday, carrying California license 1,506,590. Pennsylvania's license record is about 1,400,000, we believe, up to the present time this year.

State Secretary of Agriculture, Dr. Charles G. Jordan, was in New Castle yesterday and occupied the pulpit in the Central Presbyterian church. During the course of his remarks, he digressed to pay a compliment to New Castle. He declared that this city is about the cleanest, and best little city, from all angles, that he has found in his wide travels. "You have got to get out and travel around like I do to realize the wonderful advantages that a city offers," he declared. Likewise, he said that Pennsylvania was the greatest state in the union. "Why if we advertised like Florida and California, there would be so many tourists in Pennsylvania that they would overflow into New York," he added.

More and more autoists from Ohio are taking a new route through New Castle. Instead of making the turn onto Jefferson street at Grant, they continue east on Grant to Highland, come down Highland to Falls, go east on Falls to East, and down East to Washington street. In this way they miss several traffic light signals, and make better time getting through the city. The added traffic at the corner of Highland and Grant streets is making a greater danger at this intersection, however. New Castle autoists will have to exercise greater caution coming down the Highland avenue hill.

And talking about Ohio motorists. On Sunday it seemed that about half of the traffic in the down town section was comprised of cars carrying Ohio licenses. But, New Castle and this area were eciprocating, according to one Ohio driver, who reported that coming this way between Coltesville and New Castle he counted 268 cars with Pennsylvania licenses going towards Ohio.

Topcoats in August sounds a little like a fairy tale, but it was true enough yesterday. A considerable number of the young men noted about the city were wearing the advance harbingers of Fall.

Scores of New Castle folks have been watching the battle of the steam shovel at the excavating for the new building of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, Mercer and Washington streets, with the masonry foundation that supported the vault in the bank that was razed. It took almost a day for the big machine, powerful as it is to get the foundation broken up and out of the way.

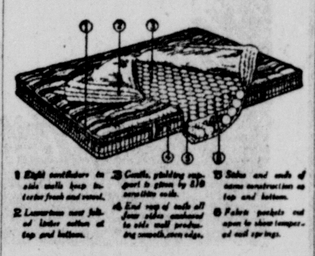

Here's a new one, but it will not affect many persons in this city. Down in Philadelphia, the motor club has inaugurated a campaign to have drivers in buggies and wagons sit on the left side. Motor club officials believe that it would help in traffic, as the driver would be on the side where he is passing traffic. It is further urged that this be done, as it would allow the driver in the buggy to give a hand signal to autoists following of his intentions to turn or stop.

Workmen this morning cut down a large tree which had been standing in North Mercer street, near The News office, for years. The tree died during the past year and was a menace to persons traveling in the street.

Humans need more earth contacts, says writer. And, in this auto age, those who walk are getting more.—Wall Street Journal.

Is it, after all, "more blessed to travel hopefully than to arrive?" Ask any transoceanic flier!—Oakland Tribune.

HIGH GRID TEAM STARTING TRAINING

Thirty-Seven Youths On Hand For Annual Encampment Period

New Castle High Football Team Enters Muddy Creek Falls Camp Today.

Practice Sessions Will Start At Once, Plan For Strong Combination.

The golden rod is yellow, the leaves are turning brown, both excellent harbingers that fall is here, and that winter is just around the corner, were supplanted today by the fact that thirty-seven youngsters, candidates for the New Castle High football team, entrained for their annual encampment at Muddy Creek Falls.

To the average grid follower the game of football means a little shivering, and other discomforts attendant to the late fall season, but all the unpleasantness is suffered gladly, as they watch the favorite sons prance over the green surfaced sward at Ben Franklin High stadium. Yes, with the first thud of the pigskin, we are reminded that fall is but several weeks away, and it will soon be time to get that fur coat out of cold storage.

Thirty-three of the young hopefuls, candidates, rookies or what ever you choose to call them, couldn't wait until today, they made a mad scramble for the wilds of Muddy Creek Falls on Sunday afternoon, in every known make of vehicle, and some of them used the ancient and undignified method of shoe-leather.

Student Manager Louis Brown was as busy as a hen with her new-born flock, taking care of the many wants of the boys last night, and it is understood that he didn't get much sleep. About four or five of the boys who couldn't break away from that Sunday night date, will report today.

Practice Starts

The official staff of the camp this year will consist of the following: Head Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches, George Thomas and William Klee, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, Student Manager Louis E. Brown and Assistant Manager Ed Smith.

Practice will start in earnest today. Coach Bridenbaugh instructed the boysto don their uniforms for the initial training session shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. Another hard workout is due for this afternoon.

New Castle High faces one of the toughest schedules in the history of the school this year, meeting among others, Donora, Peabody, Dayton Steele, South of Youngstown, and Washington High. There is plenty of work to be done before the opening game.

With a flock of veterans back this year, Coach Bridenbaugh hopes to mould into working order one of the strongest combinations of all time. The task is gigantic, but Bridenbaugh is the man that never shirks his work, and you can lay to the fact, that New Castle High is going to be heard from this year.

It won't be long now.

The team this year is captained by James McConnell who came to Grove City from McKinley High School, Canton, O., and who has starred at center for three years. Ted Rosenberg, star quarterback of the local squad for the past two years, but ineligible for play this coming season, will assist Coach Berry in coaching the team.

A practice session for the First Christian team of the Church league has been called for 6 o'clock on Wednesday night at the Scotland Lane field.

The Men's Bible class of the church will play the regulars in a practice game. All team members are asked to report as the team will get in shape to meet the Central Christians or Methodists for the Church league title. The session was called by Manager Dart and Assistant Manager Ryan.

Swims Conneaut Lake With Hands, Feet Tied

By ED. FRITZ

CONNEAUT LAKE, Aug. 29.—Jack Herbert, ace of New Castle swimmers, not only performed the unique feat of swimming across Conneaut Lake with hands and feet tied Saturday, but defeated Captain Timmins by a margin of 10 minutes. He finished strong.

During the past few weeks considerable rivalry cropped forth between park people over the aquatic merits of Herbert and Timmins, the latter a high diver who has only one arm and one leg, and it was decided to arrange a match between the swimmers. The event was staged Saturday afternoon.

They took off from the east side of the lake and it was not long until Herbert, with his feet and hands tied, went into the lead, and when a crowd of a thousand persons gathered on the west side of the lake as he finished, Herbert was greeted with a rousing reception. He was fresh when lifted from the water and after his arms and feet had been untied he awaited the arrival of Captain Timmins, who also was given a big ovation.

The West Penn division won the meet.

The gun club, Shields, Kerr and Patton, will represent the E. & A. division in the system meet at Altoona September 17.

George M. Trainor Wins On Saturday

W. G. Eckles Is Winner In The Second Division Of Sweepstake

George M. Trainor was the winner in the sweepstake event played Saturday at the golf course of the New Castle Field Club, when he turned in a net score of 74. The play was with a two-third handicap and the score of Trainor was very good considering the fact that he had a handicap of but three.

W. G. Eckles was the winner in the second division of the sweepstakes event, with a net score of 76. Most of those participating showed rare form.

The players, gross scores, handicaps and net scores follow:

'Pennsy' And 'Cents' Clash Wednesday

New Castle of the O. & P. league and the Pennsylvania railroad, apparent winners of the Lawrence County league flag, will clash in a five game series, commencing Wednesday evening, at Centennial field, according to negotiations completed today between Dan Potter of the P. R. R., Carm Sacco of the O. & P. club and the writer.

According to the agreement the first game will be played at six o'clock, Daylight Savings time, Wednesday and the second game at three o'clock, Saturday afternoon. The other tilts will be staged September 7, 10 and 17. Lawrence County League umpires will be assigned to have charge of the games.

The Pennsylvania has a clean cut margin in the Lawrence county league and is the class of the circuit. The railroaders won the first half and apparently are destined to hoist the bunting after the league schedule has been completed. New Castle has been attracting large crowds in the O. & P. games and the series will decide the relative merits of the two leagues.

RYANTOWN TO PLAY ALL-STARS

First Game Of Series Will Be Played Thursday Evening

Italian All-Stars and Ryantown, winners of the first half of the Twilight season race, have arranged to play a three-game series, the first of which will be staged at six o'clock Thursday evening at Centennial field. The second game will be staged Tuesday evening at Ryantown and the third game, if necessary, will be arranged after the two games are out of the way. The Stars have won five straight games.

Buckeye Teams To Play Four Games

Four games have been arranged by the athletic directors of the Buckeye baseball teams. The schedule is as follows: Monday night, Buckeye boys vs. Pottery boys; Tuesday, Buckeye boys vs. Bankers; Wednesday, Buckeye girls vs. Pottery girls, and Friday the Buckeye boys will play Todd's team. All of the games will start at six o'clock at the Buckeye field.

Agathons Trim New Castle 2-1

Massillon Scores Three Victories Over Locals In One Week.

MEIS PITCHES THREE-HIT GAME

Carl "Molly" Meis, the genuine "hard luck" pitcher of the New Castle ball club, hurled a three-hit game against the league leading Massillon Agathons at Centennial field on Saturday afternoon, but lost the decision by a score of 2 to 1. It was the third victory in one week for the Ohio boys over the locals.

"Red" Hart, veteran O. & P. pitcher, had the mound for the visitors and the red-thatched heaver hurled his usual tricky game against the Castles, limiting them to seven hits and keeping them well scattered. In only two innings did the locals bunch hits.

Messner, the Massillon third baseman, had the only extra base hit of the contest and this occurred in the third inning, at which time the visitors tallied their two markers. Beckwith won the game for the Agathons by his timely single with Graham and Messner on the sacks.

New Castle tallied their lone run in the fourth frame. Nixon led off with a single, Fitch drove him to third with a single into left field, Steen was safe at first when Messner muffed his grounder, DeMont fanned, Bryan smote a long sacrifice fly to center field and Nixon tallied.

Meis breezed along in fine style and had the visitors eating out of his hand. Meis fanned seven batters and issued but two passes. Hart fanned three and walked five. Meis deserved to win, but the breaks were against him as usual.

Riecks Topple Radiator Stars

Valley Outpitches Wayman As Riecks Take 2 To 1 Victory Saturday.

The Rieck-McJunkin baseball team downed the Radiator Stars, 2 to 1, in a fast contest played Saturday afternoon at the National Radiator field. The victory evens up the series between the two teams, the Stars winning a victory earlier in the week from the Riecks.

Valley and Wayman were the opposing pitchers and the victory went to the former through a steady exhibition on the rubber. Valley allowed but seven hits and fanned five men. Wayman fanned nine of the ice cream makers.

Manager Tommy Blake of the Riecks had a strong line-up on the field. Jones, the Riecks' center fielder, was the leading hitter for the game with three bingles, one of them a double. Brown was the best hitter for the Stars with two safe blows.

The Riecks tallied their runs in the fourth and fifth innings on successive hits off Wayman. The Stars scored their lone marker in the seventh inning.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

There is no use going fishing with Cricket Wysner. He talks about the fish, and in a spirit of retaliation they refused to bite. Last week we went to French creek with Jake Perelman, Doc Dickey, Red Gilboy and Cricket, and the latter incurred their enmity as soon as he arrived.

"Do you know the best way to keep fish from smelling?" asked Cricket of the physician as they fixed their tackle preparatory to catching "all" the bass in French creek. "No", replied the doctor, whereupon a black bass, quick to spread the tale, heard him cackle: "Cut off their nose".

Where is the black bass which wants to suffer the ignominy of being caught, then having his nose cut off? There isn't such a thing, so they all left, excepting three, which landed on the stringers of Red Gilboy and Cricket. The three which were caught had not yet received the danger signal. Perelman lost a fine big bass when it broke water.

Cricket wanted to try out a new stunt someone had told him, but the rest of the "fishermen" wouldn't let him. It appears that someone told Wysner that the best way to make bass bite was to throw rocks at them and get them mad. After he had laboriously collected a pile of stones from the embankment and was about to throw them into the creek, his arms were tied with fishing line.

Boror A. C. Wins Pair Of Games

The Boro A. C. won a pair of victories recently, downing the Blue Aces by a score of 19 to 2 and also defeating the South Hills boys by a score of 15 to 0.

The Boro A. C. boys turned in some extraordinary heavy hitting in both contests.

SORDS POINTS

Connie Just Can't Get Going

By JACK SORDS

Poor old Mr. Mack has stumbled again. Since the breaking up of his famous Athletic team of 1915 life has been just one broken dream after another for Connie Mack. In his efforts to rebuild a pennant winner he has suffered many disappointments, but it is doubtful if any team could have been more disappointing than his present one.

Last year, after their fine showing in 1925, the Athletics looked like a pennant winner again, and Connie, though making no predictions, was this time confident. The season was scarcely under way, though, when Mack became dissatisfied. He tried shifting his team about but it did no good. Balance could not be instilled into the players. When one department was going good the other showed up miserably.

This spring he strengthened his outfield with the addition of Ty Cobb and Zack Wheat. He also added old Eddie Collins, Brannon and Boley to the infield. And with Quinn, Rommell, Gray, Walberg and Ehmke, a wonderful collection of pitchers that appeared to be the best staff in the league. "Surely", thought Connie, "this must be my year." But the pitchers failed. Quinn, supposed to be the doubtful member of the staff, proved to be the ace. Collins and Wheat have been hardly any help at all.

Even had things been as Connie expected he could hope for nothing better than second with the Yankees going as they are.

But next year is another year and Connie will be back in the saddle. He has a good team and should win, barring, of course, another season like the present one for the Yanks, if he gets the pitching his staff is capable of producing

Two Cub Stars

By Feg Murray

Twenty-one years ago Chicago staged the first inter-city world series, the White Sox beating the Cubs, four games to two. There will be no White Sox in this year's championship contest, but the 1927 Cubs appear to be "in" or near enough in to be compared with Frank Chance's National League champions.

The great battery of the 1906 Cubs was composed of "Three-fingered" Brown and Johnny Kling, and their excellent work on the mound and behind the plate helped the Chicago Nationals win three straight pennants. Mordecai Peter Centennial Brown was an Indiana coal miner who had lost two fingers of his right hand in an accident, and was thus able to put "lots of stuff" on the ball. He pitched .702 ball for seven years with Chicago, a record that has never been surpassed.

Cherley Root, the big right-hander of the modern Cubs, should equal Brown's 1906 record of winning 26 games. He was a good pitcher last year, winning 18 games in his first major league season. But this year his fine curve, his speed and change of pace have been a sensation, and, besides his one-hit game of July 8, he has set up an enviable strike-out record second only to the marks of "Dazzy" Vance and "Lefty" Grove.

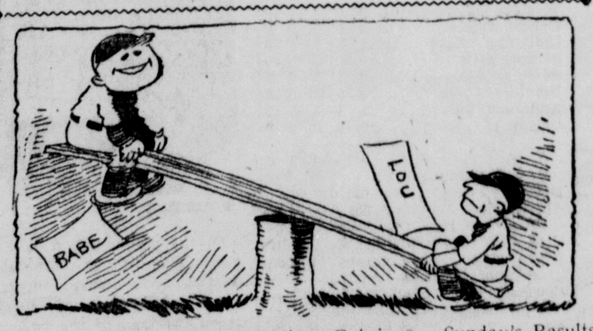

Likewise, the Cubs' peppy catcher, "Gabby" Hartnett, is fast making a place for himself in baseball's hall of fame, equal to that occupied by Kling. Hartnett is a more dangerous batter than Kling ever was, with probably the best throwing arm ever possessed by any catcher. He is the pepper-box of Manager McCarthy's machine.

It will be a treat to see this battery in action against the Yankees in October!

Feg Murray Says—

President Coolidge's statement about "not choosing to run in 1928" was most important, but supposing Charley Paddock had said "I"

Helen Wills Is Favorite To Win Tennis Tourney

California Girl Will Meet Helen Jacobs Today In Semi-Final Match.

By MALCOLM ROY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Unless rain should again intervene to make another break in the already much interrupted women's lawn tennis championship tournament at the West Side Tennis club here, Helen Wills, queen of the American courts, will battle Miss Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, who dethroned Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 1926 champion, on Friday in the semi-finals of the singles matches this afternoon. At the same time the semi-final round of the doubles with its indubitable British flavor will also be played.

Miss Wills, who has swept all before her with consummate ease in the early rounds of the tournament, will face the hardest opposition she has had to meet when she tackles Miss Jacobs, but there are few who believe that the young California girl has either the ability or the experience in championship play to make more than a fair showing against the invincible Helen, holder of the Wimbledon crown and the acknowledged leading woman player of the world. However, Miss Jacobs may have a surprise or two in store for the champion.

The fireworks of the day are expected to be provided by Mrs. Chapin and Miss Nuthall, both of whom have eliminated strong opponents in their battles up to the semi-finals. Mrs. Chapin is the heroine of the tournament thus far and her brilliant victory over Mrs. Mallory in the quarter finals has been the outstanding feature of the matches.

Jack Has Poor Training Mates

Dempsey Has No Difficulty Cuffing Them Around In Ring.

UNABLE TO SECURE 'LINE' ON DEMPSEY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'al News Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Nodding sagely in our beards over one thing we deem we like or shaking a negative head at another that meets our stern and unyielding disapproval, we of the great unintelligentsia were foregathering like the old, reliable coroner's jury again today. We foregathered in the laudable hope that, by looking with sufficient severity at Jack Dempsey, one might be able to find out what it is all about before it is too late. Of course, if we waited long enough—until the cold, grey dawn of September 23, for instance—results along this line could almost be guaranteed.

In this case, however, almost may mean something more than not quite.

For, with great clarity, I remember the morning of July 22 and the spectacle of many men still trying to call a turn that already had been called. But as to that, some of us are a little hard of hearing and so we must take it out in looking.

Mates Not Very Good.

The writer began his optical exercises at the Lincoln field race track yesterday and what he saw of Jack Dempsey there is about what he saw of him at Saratoga, to wit, very little. For Dempsey stepped out against four sparring partners who may have been the world to their immediate friends but were a total debit to the likes of me.

The first of these was Jack McCann and, offhand, I would hate to call him a third rater because I might be entirely too charitable, which would get me a lot of letters of indignant protest. The next man out was K. O. Christner and the third Benny Krueger.

I never heard of either of them before, which may be a compliment, at that. The fourth victim was Bill Marshall and it may be that none of us ever will hear of him again.

Marshall is a Chicago policeman and possibly that qualified him for the job. Anyhow, he was knocked down twice with a right to the jaw and several lefts to the body and only finished the round on tolerance. McCann was on the ropes in the first minute of play from a left and right to the head, after which Dempsey ran through signals with him. Christner showed nothing except a lot of respect for Dempsey's punch and was doing a great time trial all the way. Krueger took a bad beating without having anything to offer by way of rejoinder.

There had been considerable criticism of the calibre of some sparring partners at the Saratoga camp. But even the worst of these was a champion compared with the four on view yesterday.

Punch in Evidence.

Therefore, what price looking? The workout showed Dempsey to be a puncher but every one knew that, anyhow. It didn't show, as also was the case at Saratoga, whether the puncher would be able to score against a first class man nor did it afford anyone even the faintest idea of whether Gene Tunney, on the night of the 22nd, would make any of the serious mistakes that Jack Sharkey made last month.

Against such partners, too, there is no known way of guessing whether Dempsey's legs, the abiding factor in this fight, will be any better against Tunney than they proved to be against Sharkey.

You hear a lot out here of Dempsey's new style but that is only a good laugh to those who knew Dempsey at Toledo and Jersey City. If he really has a new style, it would seem just too bad that he wasn't able to keep the old one. He would be an odds-on choice in that case.

Yankees Have Flag Cinched

Yanks Now Out To Set New World's Record For Games Won In Season.

SCENES CHANGE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Like a fighter whose career is ruined by the bad beating, the Washington Senators and the Detroit Tigers have never been the same since they were plastered by the New York Yankees recently. "Softened" by the onslaughts of murderers' row, the Senators have lost twelve straight and the Tigers five straight. Detroit has yielded second place to the Athletics.

The St. Louis Browns, however, have been soft for the Yanks all season. The hugmen massacred the Mound City crew yesterday, 10 to 6, for the 17th time in as many starts this season. Babe Ruth's 42nd homer put him two ahead of Gehrig.

The Yanks must win 19 of their remaining 31 games to break the American League record of 105 games won in a season.

Connie Mack's Athletics clinched their hold on second place by outslugging the Tigers 9 to 5. The A's trail the Yanks by sixteen hits.

Cleveland's winning streak of seven straight was practically ruined when the Indians lost to the Red Sox in the eleventh, 6 to 5. Rothrock's single won the game.

Blankenship of the White Sox whitewashed the Senators 4 to 0. The winners scored all their runs in one big rally featured by Hunnefield's double.

All National League teams were idle. The scene shifts today with the Cubs playing the Giants, the Cardinals moving to Brooklyn and the Pirates tackling the Phillies. The Giants and Cards lost $150,000 in gate receipts and a possible chance to overhaul the Cubs as a result of continued postponements. Even if nothing but double headers are played when the Eastern teams go west, some of the postponed games can not be played off.

To prepare for these double headers, the Cardinals have obtained pitchers Johnson, Frankhouse, and Stout from the Syracuse farm.

What If Ruth And Gehrig Played On New Castle Team

When Raymond McCoy, former New Castle first baseman crashed that home run out at the local ball orchard early this year little did he think he would be rewarded with a flock of wearng apparel. But today McCoy is sporting a new shirt, necktie, socks and other things, unmentionable all because he socked the stitched horse-hide over the fence. McCoy smote the first home run of the season at Centennial field.

Joseph L. Rocks, manager of the Fisher Brothers store on East Washington street, very earnestly quoted one day that the first New Castle player to hit a home-run this year would be given $10 in merchandise from the Fisher store.

McCoy left the New Castle team several days ago and is now playing with the Massillon Agathons. At the time the home-run was knocked the matter of the clothing offer was overlooked but McCoy just happened to think about it and Rocks was not long in making good the offer.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A bond of affection akin to that which exists between father and son has grown up between Tex Rickard and Jack Dempsey.

Their attachment for each other transcends the ordinary feeling of appreciation that might come from the manner in which their mutual relations have netted them their fortunes.

This is apparent in watching the two together and in talking with Rickard.

The latter has been in the game enough to become "hard" in the matter of taking his meal tickets closer to his bosom than the cashier's window. But Dempsey has crept through the barrier. Rickard might well be pointed out as the greatest worshipper Dempsey has—and they seem now to run from coast to coast.

Talk to Rickard of Dempsey and he enters into the discussion, not with the forced pleasantness with which he discusses this, that or the other bout but with the doting interest of a proud dad.

"Did you ever see a fellow like him in your life?" Rickard asks. And then he proceeds to tell you of Dempsey's boyish pranks just as fathers have recited the unusually interesting sidelights of the children's activities since time began.

Rickard probably more than anyone else, has watched the change in Dempsey over the last eleven months.

"Last year at this time Jack would worry you by the way he acted," said Rickard during a chat today.

"He seemed to have lost his ambition. Little things worried him. It was hard to shake him out of it. The playfulness that he used to have was gone.

Now he's a different fellow entirely. He seems eager to be doing something. And he usually is—some kind of horse play. Came in the other day and turned the office upside down by scattering the correspondence all over the place and mauling some of the boys around. Laughing all the while he did it just like any mischievous kid.

'You like to have him do it—that's what gets you.

"I'm going to play golf with him tomorrow" the promoter added. And he said it not as though the game was arranged for publicity or business reasons but as though he looked forward to it as a day off with his "boy."

I think you can accept the sincerity of feeling over the knowlege that Rickard may well feel grateful toward Dempsey and Jack toward Tex for the mutual aid they have rendered each other financially.

Dempsey's new found confidence in himself is indicated by the recital of the chat he had with Tex before the articles to meet Tunney this second time were signed.

"Most anybody would climb into the ring for the money that I'll get for meeting Gene" said Jack. "But I wouldn't consider for a minute signing up for the bout if I wasn't pretty sure that I could win it. For the simple reason that I wouldn't trade the friends I've won the last few months for the money I'll get. Lots of fellows can earn as much money as you're offering me for this fight but it doesn't come to everybody to have the friends I have. I didn't have them until I lost the title and I wouldn't loose them by going into this affair to make a farce out of it."

And I have it on the word of one who ought to know that Dempsey went into the fight on that basis alone—the belief that he can come back into the title.

There was no heckling over the finances.

And those who know Dempsey will tell you that it was his desire to play square with the public that helped widen the breach between himself and "Get-all-you-can" Kearns.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

The Battle of the Crater.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AT 3:30 A. M., JULY 30, 1864, THE FEDERALS LIGHTED THE FUSE OF THE GREAT MINE THEY HAD DUG BENEATH THE "ELLIOTT'S SALIENT" FORT, THAT FORMED AN IMPORTANT PART OF THE CONFEDERATE DEFENSES AT PETERSBURG, VIRGINIA. AN HOUR PASSED WHILE UNION TROOPS, MASSED FOR THE ATTACK THAT WAS TO FOLLOW, WAITED IN SUSPENSE.

TWO BRAVE MEN, ENTERING THE TUNNEL, FOUND THAT THE FUSE HAD DIED OUT, AND RELIGHTED IT. THIS TIME THE 8,000 POUNDS OF POWDER STORED IN THE MAGAZINES BLEW UP, AND WHERE THE FORT HAD STOOD, THERE APPEARED A GREAT, SMOKING HOLE FILLED WITH WRECKAGE AND THE FORMS OF DEAD AND WOUNDED MEN.

AFTER THE EXPLOSION, STRONG COLUMNS OF WHITE AND COLORED UNION TROOPS BRAVELY POURED INTO THE CRATER, BUT FOUND IT HARD TO SCALE THE SLIPPERY SIDES AT THE FURTHER END. THIS DELAY GAVE THE CONFEDERATES TIME TO RECOVER FROM THEIR SURPRISE, AND A WITHERING FIRE WAS CONCENTRATED UPON THE CRATER.

HUDDLED TOGETHER IN THE DEEP HOLE, THE ASSAILANTS WERE UNABLE TO ADVANCE OR RETREAT, AND THE DEFENDERS, AFTER REPEATED CHARGES SUCCEEDED IN RESTORING THEIR ORIGINAL LINE, AND CUTTING OFF THOSE IN THE CRATER FROM THE UNION ARMY. THE UNION LOSS AT THE MINE WAS 3,798; THAT OF THE CONFEDERATES ABOUT 1,000.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—After an almost uninterrupted advance of ten consecutive weeks, the industrial stocks felt the weight of profit-taking and professional selling at the beginning of trading today, and prices turned irregularly downward. Steel Common continued to move forward, reaching a new high at 146 1-2 in the first period, and commanding an active market around 143.

Some cognizance was taken of the tardiness of important lines of business and industry to display the usual seasonal recuperation, but for the most part stock market movements were dictated by technical market conditions rather than outside factors. Higher prices for cotton and prospects for a considerable increase in the purchasing powers of the western farmers offset any disappointment felt over the falling off in business volume. Call money was unchanged at 5 1-2 per cent.

The first-hour reaction was generally confined to the high-priced speculative leaders.

Knowles Company Will Make Survey

Councilmen Employ Experts To Make Study Of Traffic Situation Here

Morris Knowles Company of Pittsburgh will conduct a traffic survey in the city of New Castle according to action taken by members of the city council in formal session at city hall today.

After council had deliberated for some time over various propositions from different firms, Mayor William Dunlap told solons they should decide today if a survey was to be made.

It developed that two propositions were close—that of Morris Knowles Company and of John Reis. The former offered to do the work for $2,500 and Reis would supervise the survey for $2,000.

Council was told by Solicitor White who scanned Reis communication that the price was exclusive of wages that would necessarily have to be paid to persons making the survey.

When Councilman Genkinger made a motion to accept the Knowles proposition his colleague, Davies said he believed this firm would be better able to conduct it, having zoned this city.

With Genkinger and Davies voting favorably Mr. Burns said: "I cannot vote for this as I believe it too high. I am in favor of a survey but the price is little less than it cost to zone the city."

He also said that the work would largely be a repetition but it was persons would have to be hired to take traffic counts at various points.

Councilman Tyler's views were along the same lines as his colleague Burns and he cast a negative ballot. Mayor William Dunlap voted for the award and the Knowles firm got the job.

Councilman Burns explained that the city has no fund for this work and he will have to delve into the city finances to ascertain where he can secure the necessary $2,500.

DELAY AWARD OF CONTRACTS

Contract To Be Awarded For Sewer Needed At Jameson Memorial Hospital

Council did not award a contract for the paving of Garfield avenue, South Jefferson and Quest streets during formal session held in city hall today, choosing to wait until City Engineer F. F. Miller checks the bid of the Victor Olsen Contracting company, showing the separate paving cost of each thoroughfare.

When council convened today Miller reported the Olsen company to have presented a low bid of $22,523.65, for paving the four thoroughfares.

An appendage on the report said the price included the cost of the Garfield avenue sewer.

The Jameson Memorial hospital will pay for the sewer and as soon as Miller's report is received and he makes a new recommendation a contract for the paving will be awarded and the contract will stipulate that improvement of Garfield avenue is to start immediately.

Coolidge Returns To Routine Work

Following Tour Of National Park, Coolidge Returns To Find Work Piled Up

(International News Service)

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 29.—President Coolidge came back to his desk at the summer White House today, prepared to dispose of a week's accumulation of business.

During the seven days he was in the Yellowstone National Park a number of matters of official business developed, all of which will require his personal attention. He spent the entire morning perusing mail which his secretaries regarded as being of a personal nature.

The president's more important engagements will begin tomorrow.

In the two remaining weeks of his vacation the president expects to receive first hand information concerning a number of problems confronting the administration. To date, Senator Hiram W. Bingham, Republican of Connecticut, leader of the fight for a larger air force, has the only set engagement, but others are expected. Bingham will arrive here the latter part of the week.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coolidge is dividing his time between fishing and horseback riding.

Vera Reynolds Denies Attempt Made At Suicide

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 29.—Vera Reynolds, film actress whose first important screen role was that of a suicide in "Feet of Clay," today was recovering from what police declare has been an attempt to end her own life.

Detectives, who were summoned to the star's home by a telephone call that "someone had taken poison" reported they found an empty bottle in the bathroom which smelled of Lysol.

After a vigorous application of a stomach pump, Miss Reynolds denied she had sought to commit suicide.

Admitting that she had taken "quite a few drinks," the actress said she had been under a doctor's care for sometime. Her illness, she explained, bordered on a nervous breakdown and was brought about by depressing "futuristic" sets used in her newest picture.

Her mother, Mrs. L. B. Reynolds, told officers her ailing daughter might have taken poison by mistake.

Baptismal Service In Neshannock Creek On Sunday Afternoon

Impressive Exercises Under The Auspices Of The First Church of The Nazarene

An impressive baptismal service was held Sunday afternoon at the end of Neshannock avenue on the banks of the Neshannock river under the auspices of the Church of the Nazarene. The service was in charge of the pastor Rev. G. Howard Rowe, who also administered the Sacrament of Baptism. Crowds were gathered on both sides of the river, on the bridge and as high up and far away as the Croton hills.

The opening hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have" was sung by the many who had gathered to take part in the service. Prayer was offered by Ira Blair and the Scriptures, John 3:1-8 was read by George Hackett.

Rev. Rowe read the Covenant of Christian Baptism to the candidates and they in turn responded with the Covenant Vows. The hymn "Shall We Gather at the River" was sung by the congregation as Rev. Rowe entered into the water. Each candidate was led into the water and received in turn the Right of Christian Baptism.

The evening services at the Church of the Nazarene last night was unusual in style and interest manifested. The Young People's meeting at 6:45 was in charge of the president Harry Dean. Opening hymns were sung after which Mrs. Ruth Furey and Lawrence McAllen rendered a duet number accompanied with guitar and banjo-mandolin. Mrs. Furey then gave a timely talk to the society on the subject "The Bible the Word of God."

The orchestra played a selection in opening the evangelistic service, "America, the Beautiful." The congregation sang "The Half Has Never Yet Been Told." The newly orginized men's quartet rendered a very pretty number "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." The quartet follows: Harry Dean, tenor; Lester Furey, soprano; G. Howard Rowe, alto; Fred Pontius, bass.

The sermon subject was "The Time of the End."

Engineer Saves His Fireman; Prevents Wreck

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 29.—Despite injuries he sustained in the Broadway Limited wreck near here early today, Edward Hunter, 53, engineer on the second engine, found time to rescue his fireman, Emory Hartman, and to prevent a second wreck before he was taken to a hospital.

Climbing from the debris to an embankment near the track, with his head and face burned and lacerated, Hunter flagged a westbound freight. Returning to the wrecked engines, he discovered Hartman covered with cinders, close to steam that was escaping from a punctured boiler.

At the Altoona hospital, where he is confined, Hunter was unable to explain the wreck. He said they were making a good run, were on time and traveling at a reduced speed. Hunter paid tribute to Charles L. Garrett, the dead engineer.

"He was a most careful engineer, a fine man and a good friend," he said of Garrett.

ZIEGFELD FOLLIES WITH GREAT CAST COMING SEPT. 8

Twenty years on Broadway, and now for the first time on tour, the famous Ziegfeld Follies, with the original New York scenic production and a cast said to be magnificent in every particular, comes to the Scottish Rite Auditorium Thursday night, September 8th.

"Glorifying the American Girl," as exemplified by Flo Zeigfeld in the Follies has become an annual act of national importance and perhaps no phrase ever coined has so struck the public fancy. This is the twentieth edition of the celebrated Follies series and is reported as being in many ways the most beautiful. Joseph Urban designed the scenes, and nothing could be more gorgeous, for his imagery and his unerring penchant for lush colors and graceful lines are known and admired throughout the world.

No less brilliant stars than Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with their Denishawn Dancers, head the large cast. Possibly no combination of stars who command such a tremendous salary as the Denishawns has ever been sent on tour with a musical revue, and certainly it seems that not only the luster of their names but the superlative quality of their performance has brought a new and radiant note to the musical comedy and revue stage.

Mail orders will be filled now in the order of their receipt.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

One of the poems learned back in public school days that has remained with me is "Gray's Elegy In A Country Church Yard". Somehow the rhythmic beauty, the flowing meter and the thought back of it all has always impressed me, and to me it is one of the finest bits of poesy ever done.

To really appreciate Gray's frame of mind when he wrote it one must find a country church yard that seems to fit the picture. Sunday morning, or Sabbath morning, depending upon whether you are a Methodist or a United Presbyterian, I was out at the Plaingrove Presbyterian church and Gray himself could ask for nothing more peaceful.

There was a calm serenity about the church that bespoke contentment, right living and a true Christian spirit. An intangible something that seemed to blot out the hurry and bustle of the workaday world. And as I was standing out in the churchyard the organ inside pealed out that grand old hymn that Theodore Roosevelt loved so well, "How Firm A Foundation."

And over across the road from the church, was the resting spot of those who have gone on before, seemingly a promise that "the paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Plaingrove township people are real folks. Talking to a group of them soon convinces one that here is a settlement of people that believe in their country, work hard, and ask favors from nobody.

And just while I'm on the subject of Plaingrove, let me add that I found out one use for candidates' cards. Hay baler tags. One farmer in the group said that they made splendid tags for use in the hay baler, and he already had twenty or more for use.

Probably unnecessary to say that we were visited by four aeroplanes Saturday afternoon. Three of them were flying in a V formation and one was a solo plane. With three other golfers (?) I was was playing the sixth green when the three planes roared overhead. No wonder I went bad on that hole. Aeroplanes overhead, and Roy Shira's Canadian socks staring me in the face were enough to throw Bobby Jones off his game.

"Interested" may be interested to know that I got the letter. Am interested, but no mind reader. Another letter giving the number referred to might help a little.

My old friend, Chris Schoenfield, just got back from a fishing trip up around Edinboro and if his stories are true, as I know they are, then the Canadian lakes needn't be visited. He got a salmon, a lot of bass and some other finnie beauties, but as usual the biggest one of all got away. From his description it must have been a swordfish, or an aquatic tiger.

Which brings up the question, what kind of a fish was it that Clyde Smith caught? There's something dark and mysterious about this catch and some of his friends would like to get the low down on it.

Lathrop street is open now, also the connecting link on Williams street onto Long avenue. Let us now sing the long metered doxology. The paving on Lathrop street is well done and if you are coming from East Washington street to Long Avenue you can forget all about Arlington avenue, and its corduroy.

Safe driving is always to be commended but there's such a thing as overdoing it. Somebody in a new sedan Sunday afternoon out on the Wilmington road tied up traffic beautifully by driving at about 12 miles per hour. Too much traffic coming against the line to run around and about twenty cars were crowded together.

Some day the Printers' baseball team is going to win a game. That is if they can find a team that plays a little worse than they do. The boys went to Pulaski the other night and back in the composing room the printers were so arrogant over their chances to win, that I laid ten on the Pulaski team. Ten cents, that is. As a result Percy White is out a thin dime.

Say, customers, have you noticed that New Castle is beginning to get some conventions here. Several good ones promised, and the boys of Headquarters Company of the 332nd Infantry are going to try and get their reunion for here next year. More power to their elbow and you men who wore the Lion of St. Marks, give Joe O'Leary a lift in the work by getting around to the meeting at the Legion Home Wednesday night.
